Investigators Try To Unravel Mystery Blast

Discount Sabotage In Explosion of Huge Dynamite Supply That Killed 31 At Pennsylvania Quarry.

(By United Press)

EASTON, Pa.—Investigators swarmed over a limestone quarry of the Lehigh Portland Cement company today, looking for the cause of an explosion of 20 tons of dynamite which tore 31 men into shreds, hurled debris seven miles and was heard for 100 miles around.

It appeared that their quest was hopeless, that all evidence was destroyed as completely as the victims.

Suggestions of sabotage were discounted, although John Petty, an assistant foreman, reported that he had seen three planes circle over the quarry from 7:30 a. m. yesterday until a moment after the explosion occurred at 9:18 a. m.

There is an airport near the quarry and planes frequently fly over it.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and state police said they had found no evidence of sabotage.

Workmen were preparing to set charges over a 400-foot square section of rock that was to be blasted.

Suddenly stacked boxes of dynamite exploded in a sheet of flame. The earth trembled. Children were blown from their desks in a school a mile away and 12 children and two teachers were injured.

Residents of Camden, N. J., 50 miles from the scene, felt the explosion and small pieces of debris fell at Butztown, Pa., seven miles from the quarry.

Twenty-eight workmen who were eating lunch near the dynamite and three Hercules Powder company representatrves, there to supervise the use of the dynamite, never had a chance. The three Hercules representatives—George Hadesty, jr., 48, Allentown, Pa.; Ray Garnett, 41, Wilmington, Del.; and William L. Lanahan, New York—were among the 13 whose bodies were identified.

Sixteen men working at the bottom of a 150-foot pit escaped injury, because the force of the explosion went up and around, rather than down.

Where Quarry Blast Killed 31

STATE REJECTS 11 DRAFTEES

Boards Here Informed of Those Returned From 201 Men Sent From County.

At least 11 of the 201 Richland youths who went to Fort Hayes and Fort Thomas last Tuesday for induction into the army were rejected or held for further physical check-ups at the induction stations, two of the county's three draft boards learned today.

Board 2, which sent 54 men to Fort Thomas, Ky., has received no report on the acceptance of its group. The other inductees went to Fort Hayes in Columbus.

Ten of the 70 men scheduled for induction by Board 1 were either rejected or held in Columbus awaiting the report of physical examinations. Only one of the 77 youths sent by Board 3 returned home.

Defective vision, infected teeth, and hernia were given as the reasons for the rejection of some of the men, most of whom had been examined before at Fort Hayes

Only 224 Out of 2,432 Pupils Have Perfect Teeth

Less than ten per cent of Mansfield school pupils examined for dental defects during the past month in the state dental mobile unit had perfect teeth, according to an announcement today by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner.

Dr. Wild said that Dr. I. E. Henry of the state health department, who conducted the examinations, had reported that of the 2,432 children examined in the first four grades of Mansfield schools only 224 were found without defects.

"More serious than the low percentage of good teeth," said Dr. Wild, "is the neglect of treatment of teeth having defects. Only 1,120 permanent teeth were found to have been filled or extracted while there were 4,247 which nedd tratment."

The record of the senior pupils at Mansfield Senior high school and St. Peter's parochial high school were no better than that of the elementary grade pupils.

Out of a total of 314 seniors examined, only nine were found

'U. S. Still to Feel Full Impact of War Rationing'

Mrs. Roosevelt's Successor Places Responsibility for Civilian Defense on Local Councils.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The full impact of war and rationing hasn't yet begun to hit America with full force was the prediction left with Ohioans today by Jonathan Daniels, successor to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as assistant national director of civilian defense.

Daniels, a Raleigh, N. C., newspaper editor, is a son of Josephus Daniels, recently resigned ambassador to Mexico and secretary of the navy in World war I. He spoke at a three-day institute sponsored by the Ohio State Council of Defense.

"The social revolution that coming of the automobile made in America," he said, "will be more than equalled by the revolution which is due in living standards and habits.

"Ohio, with the rest of the country, is going to have to learn to walk again."

At this juncture, Daniels paused to explain that the true purpose of civilian defense is not defense of the civilian, but use of civilian resources to the utmost in support of victory in war.

He fixed full responsibility for the functioning of civilian defense work on the 800 or more local defense councils in Ohio whose 1,000 representatives are attending the institute.

"Each locality," he asserted, "must be the architect of its own defense effort because it has the best means of determining what is needed and what can be accomplished successfully."

EXTENDS HOURS

Auto Club Will Be Open Until 8 P. M. For Tag Buyers.

With license plate sales for March lagging far behind 1941 figures, Frank Beverstock, secretary of the Richland County Auto club, announced that beginning today and continuing through March 31, the club will remain open until 8 p. m. to take care of motorists who have not yet purchased 1942 tags.

Because only four sales days remain until April 1 when 1941 plates may no longer be legally displayed, Beverstock urged motorists still without new tags to obtain them as soon as possible to avoid a last minute rush and long waiting lines.

Young Lecturer Tells Women Of War Torn 'Beastal' Europe

By BETTY STROTHER

Only 21, but a girl whose life in war-torn Europe is so packed with interesting experiences that it could provide volumes of interesting reading told about "Darkest Europe" yesterday in a lecture before the Mansfield Federation of Women.

Hungarian, and born in an airplane enroute from Budapest to Vienna, Gitta Sereny told her audience at the Ohio theater of her escape from occupied France and from what she called the "beastal" conditions in the Nazi-occupied countries.

She was in Austria when it was annexed in March, 1938, and says that even if she had been pro-Nazi before, she would have changed after what she saw in Vienna.

With the annexation of Austria, Miss Sereny declared, "people became beasts." She saw Raphael's "Madonna" picture in St. Stephen's church taken down and Hitler's picture hung in its place with candles in front of it. She saw masses of people kneeling before life-size pictures of Hitler; saw the great library, works and books of Prof. Ludwig von Mises destroyed by fire.

From Vienna, Miss Sereny went to Switzeriand, After attending school in Geneva for two months she left for the University of Besancon, France. When the war broke out she was in Paris. There, she witnessed Nazi "trials" and in her lecture she cited many incidents of cruelty and hardship

COMMISSIONER RACE ASSURED

Bricker Says He'll Oppose Mitchell In Democratic Primary Election.

The contest for the Democratic nomination for county commissioner became a wide-open race today when Fred Bricker, Jackson township, announced he will oppose Commissioner C. L. Mitchell for re-election and two other Democrats indicated they may file for the office.

Bricker, former member of the county board of elections, entered the contest officially with the statement that "there should be a member of the board of commissioners from the northern half of the county."

Mitchell, seeking his third term on the board, began circulating nominating petitions several days ago. Only one commissioner will be nominated and elected this year. Other members of the board

County Finds It A Big Job to Get Truck Delivered

Richland county commissioners and County Engineer Howard Sword were beginning to wonder today if it's worth the effort required to get a new county truck under war priorities.

The county ordered a combination truck and snow plow for the road department last November before the nation entered the war. It reached the dealer here in January, but that's as far as it got.

After repeated unsuccessful attempts to get the truck delivered, Sword was informed today by the Office of Emergency Management at Toledo that he must prove conclusively that an old county truck which the commissioners planned to trade in can't be repaired and the county's present trucks can't be operated longer hours.

Sword estimated that it would cost more than $400 to repair the old truck, and he pointed out that the new one has special attachments which would make it of little value except in road work. He said he may go to Toledo to confer with OEM officials in a final attempt to have the truck released.

PROBE DEATH OF MOTHER OF 6 AT ASHLAND

Divorcee, Found Unconscious In Apartment, Dies Later at Hospital.

COMPANION HELD

Coroner Says Victim Could Have Been Poisoned; Plans To Conduct Autopsy.

ASHLAND — City and county authorities today were investigating mysterious circumstances surrounding the death last night of a 36-year-old divorcee

Police said Mrs. Flossie Norris, mother of six children, died in Samaritan hospital at 11:30 p. m., three hours after she had been admitted.

The woman, Police Chief M. D. McCarty said, was found unconscious in her modest two-room apartment. A male companion was also in the apartment.

Police identified him as Lee Burkett, 40, a factory worker, whom they booked at heaquarters on a charge of intoxication. Chief McCarty said he would be held as a material witness.

Chief McCarty and Mayor Glenn Haller ordered the woman removed to the hospital after they had been called by a neighbor who reported that she was in "serious condition."

The body was removed to the Fickes funeral home at Jeromesville where Ashland County Coroner Dr. George Emery was to perform an autopsy today.

Dr. Emery said the woman was bleeding at the mouth when found by the officers and that it was possible that she may either have taken or had been given poison.

McCarty said the apartment in which the woman had lived alone had been locked pending outcome of the coroner's verdict.

He said he had learned that Mrs. Norris had been ill for some time and that she had been under a physician's care for the past week. He said he did not believe the woman had been drinking.

Officers said Mrs. Norris had been divorced from her husband for sometime. Four of their children, they said, were in the Ashland county orphan's home and two others were staying with friends

Her former husband, police said, is living in Ashland. He has not been questioned by police.

GIVEN RITES

Archbishop Schrembs Receives Sacrament in Hospital.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Archbishop Joseph Schrembs, head of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, today received the last sacraments in St. John's hospital, where he is critically ill with a heart attack.

Bishop Schrembs, who was 76 last March 12, has been in poor health for more than a year. The spiritual leader of nearly one million Catholics, Bishop Schrembs, the son of a Bavarian blacksmith, came to the United States 64 years ago from Ratisbon, Bavaria.

He studied at St. Vincent's abbey at Beatty, Pa., and taught in Louisville, Ky. He was ordained in Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1889.

When he was installed as bishop of Toledo in 1911 Bishop Schrembs recognized the necessity for community funds and a fund was established in Toledo at about the same time as Cleveland's was set up. Bishop Schrembs came to Cleveland in 1921 and was prominently identified each year with community fund work.

PROTESTS TAX

Bricker Calls Proposal Interference with Local Financing.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— Gov. John W. Bricker today protested proposed federal taxation of future issues of municipal bonds as an "unwarranted intereference with local financing leading toward federal control."

In a telegram to Rep. Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, Bricker said he felt the measure should be opposed.

Japs Launch Incessant Air Attack on Fort

Morning-to-Midnight Blasting Seen as Prelude to All-Out Offensive on Batan; Patrols Clash Sharply; Many Missiles Fall In Bay.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Japanese have begun a round-the-clock aerial bombardment of Corregidor fortress in Manila bay and seem about ready to launch their big push in Batan.

The war department communique today, reporting more sharp clashes on Batan and movements of Japanese troops behind the lines, said this "indicated that increased activity may be expected."

Thus it appeared a big test was approaching for the outnumbered American and Filipino defenders now led by Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright.

The department reported that fortified Corregidor "was bombed almost continuously from early morning until midnight" yesterday, obviously as part of the Japanese prelude to an offensive. But most of the bombs fell in Manila bay. The bombs which did hit the fortress "did little damage."

"Early today," the communique reported, "the aerial attacks on our fortifications were resumed."

The communique related that the enemy was moving trucks and troops behind its lines in Batan facing those of Wainwright's main forces.

The Japanese were accompanying their ground activity with dive bomber attacks in the rear of Wainwright's lines "but without success," the communique said.

The tempo of the enemy air attacks on Corregidor resembled the intensity of the Axis aerial raids on Malta in the Mediterranean, where the British fortress has been subjected to periodic heavy air assaults for many months. Malta still holds out.

The communique said that in the fighting over Corregidor several enemy planes were believed to have been hit by American anti-aircraft fire.

The rocky fortress, guardian of the entrance to Manila bay, has held out defiantly so far against heavy Japanese bombers which have dumped at least 2,000 bombs since late December.

Today's bombing marked the fourth successive day of Japanese attack on the fortress, which so far has reported little damage to its military installations from the enemy pounding.

In some of their attacks the Japanese have used a new type of heavy bomber said to resemble our Boeing flying fortress. Japanese propaganda broadcasts also have claimed that a new type of explosive is being used.

But the new planes and explosives have failed to silence Corregidor's 10-inch guns.

Until Corregidor is overwhelmed Japanese invaders cannot use Manila bay. With nearby Forts Hughes, Drum and Frank, Corregidor blocks the entrance to the finest harbor of the far Pacific and the approach to Japanese-occupied Manila.

Must Crush Batan Or 'Lose Face'

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Within a month from today, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita must crush or capture the American-Filipino defenders of Batan and Corregidor

REPEAT: RAF Splashes 2-Ton Bombs on Krupp Arms Factory

(By Associated Press)

Giant four-engine British bombers, perhaps 250 strong and carrying two-ton explosives, smashed at Germany's great Krupp munitions works and other Nazi war foundries in the Ruhr last night. Pressing the spring aerial offensive in one of the heaviest assaults of the war.

By daylight, RAF fighter planes beat off a retaliatory German thrust.

The air ministry said today the huge bomber force concentrated on Essen, home of the Krupp works, striking in squadron after squadron, and also pounded enemy airdromes in German-occupied Holland, an oil refinery near Ghent and the docks at Le Havre, France.

The air ministry acknowledged the loss of 13 bombers.

It was the second successive night of heavy RAF assaults on the Ruhr industrial valley, and British quarters pointed out that the RAF's attempts to "flatten" the Krupp works came just when the production of tanks and munitions are vitally needed for Adolf Hitler's spring offensive.

Europe stirred uneasily in anticipation of Hitler's next move.

A London Daily Mail dispatch quoting reports from Berlin said King Boris of Bulgaria had agreed to break off relations with Russia, under German pressure, and to supply Hitler with 200,000 troops.

"Bulgarian divisions are moving toward the southern frontier, particularly toward the lower Maritza valley," the dispatch said—indicating a threat to British-Allied but still neutral Turkey.

SHAPE-UP: M'Arthur Moving Swiftly; Quezon In Australia

(By International News Service)

MELBOURNE—General Douglas MacArthur's plans to convert Australia into an "offensive base" against Japan took form and shape today as President Manuel Luis Quezon, loyal to the United States and still very much alive despite Japanese reports to the contrary, arrived in Australia to take his place in the high command.

There were a number of rapid-fire developments in the wake of General MacArthur's first consultations with the Australian war cabinet at Canberra yesterday:

1—The entire northern territory of Australia was placed under full military control.

2—Major General Thomas A. Blamey, commander-in-chief of Australian forces in the Middle East, returned to Australia to become commander-in-chief of United Nations land forces on the island continent.

3—A considerable portion of Australian forces formerly assigned to duty in the Middle East also came back home to play a major role in the "swin or die" campaign which MacArthur has mapped out in concert with Australian Prime Minister John Curtin and Army Minister Francis Forde.

4—American and Australian bombers lashed out again at Koepang on Japanese-held Timor island, attacking enemy shipping and other targets in hazardous weather, while Japanese planes again raided Port Moresby without causing military damage or casualties.

Immediately upon his arrival in Canberra General Blamey

MIXED PRICE CHANGES KEEP NARROW PATH

War News Viewed Stand-off at Potential Bidders Stay In Background.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Narrowly mixed price changes continued to black out definite trends in today's stock market.

American Telephone edged into new low ground for the year. Lacking rising power were Western Union, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, U. S. Rubber, Woolworth, General Motors and U. S. Steel.

The war news again was viewed as about a stand-off marketwise and many potential bidders remained in the background to await more light on the forthcoming tax program, federal price controls and possible drastic legislation of corporation net earnings.

Scant market comfort was found in statistical date disclosing both heavy engineering awards and bank clearings in the latest week were well under the previous week's totals.

While construction contracts, as summarized by the engineering News-Record, topped the comparable period last year by 40 per cent, they fell 35 per cent from the level of the week before.

Officials Ask Bricker Stamp Out Prostitution.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— The federal government today asked Gov. John W. Bricker to do "everything in your power" to eliminate prostitution from the vicinity of army and navy posts in Ohio to prevent the spread of venerial diseases among men in the armed forces.

In letters to Bricker, Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson asked the governor to "assume the responsibility for stimulating adequate state and local repression of prostitution."

"This means closing segregated districts and ending the farce of periodic examinations for prostitutes as well as intelligent police follow-up that will keep out profiteers in vice," Stimson said.

He asked Bricker to intensify enforcement in areas near Wright Field, Patterson field, Fort Hayes and Camp Ferry.

Investigators Try To Unravel Mystery Blast

Discount Sabotage In Explosion of Huge Dynamite Supply That Killed 31 At Pennsylvania Quarry.

(By United Press)

EASTON, Pa.—Investigators swarmed over a limestone quarry of the Lehigh Portland Cement company today, looking for the cause of an explosion of 20 tons of dynamite which tore 31 men into shreds, hurled debris seven miles and was heard for 100 miles around.

It appeared that their quest was hopeless, that all evidence was destroyed as completely as the victims.

Suggestions of sabotage were discounted, although John Petty, an assistant foreman, reported that he had seen three planes circle over the quarry from 7:30 a. m. yesterday until a moment after the explosion occurred at 9:18 a. m.

There is an airport near the quarry and planes frequently fly over it.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and state police said they had found no evidence of sabotage.

Workmen were preparing to set charges over a 400-foot square section of rock that was to be blasted.

Suddenly stacked boxes of dynamite exploded in a sheet of flame. The earth trembled. Children were blown from their desks in a school a mile away and 12 children and two teachers were injured.

Residents of Camden, N. J., 50 miles from the scene, felt the explosion and small pieces of debris fell at Butztown, Pa., seven miles from the quarry.

Twenty-eight workmen who were eating lunch near the dynamite and three Hercules Powder company representatives, there to supervise the use of the dynamite, never had a chance. The three Hercules representatives—George Hadesty, jr., 48, Allentown, Pa.; Ray Garnett, 41, Wilmington, Del.; and William L. Lanahan, New York—were among the 13 whose bodies were identified.

Sixteen men working at the bottom of a 150-foot pit escaped injury, because the force of the explosion went up and around, rather than down.

Where Quarry Blast Killed 31

STATE REJECTS 11 DRAFTEES

Boards Here Informed of Those Returned From 201 Men Sent From County.

At least 11 of the 201 Richland youths who went to Fort Hayes and Fort Thomas last Tuesday for induction into the army were rejected or held for further physical check-ups at the induction stations, two of the county's three draft boards learned today.

Board 2, which sent 54 men to Fort Thomas, Ky., has received no report on the acceptance of its group. The other inductees went to Fort Hayes in Columbus.

Ten of the 70 men scheduled for induction by Board 1 were either rejected or held in Columbus awaiting the report of physical examinations. Only one of the 77 youths sent by Board 3 returned home.

Defective vision, infected teeth, and hernia were given as the reasons for the rejection of some of the men, most of whom had been examined before at Fort Hayes

Only 224 Out of 2,432 Pupils Have Perfect Teeth

Less than ten per cent of Mansfield school pupils examined for dental defects during the past month in the state dental mobile unit had perfect teeth, according to an announcement today by Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner.

Dr. Wild said that Dr. I. E. Henry of the state health department, who conducted the examinations, had reported that of the 2,432 children examined in the first four grades of Mansfield schools only 224 were found without defects.

"More serious than the low percentage of good teeth," said Dr. Wild, "is the neglect of treatment of teeth having defects. Only 1,120 permanent teeth were found to have been filled or extracted while there were 4,247 which nedd tratment."

The record of the senior pupils at Mansfield Senior high school and St. Peter's parochial high school were no better than that of the elementary grade pupils.

Out of a total of 314 seniors examined, only nine were found

'U. S. Still to Feel Full Impact of War Rationing'

Mrs. Roosevelt's Successor Places Responsibility for Civilian Defense on Local Councils.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—The full impact of war and rationing hasn't yet begun to hit America with full force was the prediction left with Ohioans today by Jonathan Daniels, successor to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt as assistant national director of civilian defense.

Daniels, a Raleigh, N. C., newspaper editor, is a son of Josephus Daniels, recently resigned ambassador to Mexico and secretary of the navy in World war I. He spoke at a three-day institute sponsored by the Ohio State Council of Defense.

"The social revolution that coming of the automobile made in America," he said, "will be more than equalled by the revolution which is due in living standards and habits.

"Ohio, with the rest of the country, is going to have to learn to walk again."

At this juncture, Daniels paused to explain that the true purpose of civilian defense is not defense of the civilian, but use of civilian resources to the utmost in support of victory in war.

He fixed full responsibility for the functioning of civilian defense work on the 800 or more local defense councils in Ohio whose 1,000 representatives are attending the institute.

"Each locality," he asserted, "must be the architect of its own defense effort because it has the best means of determining what is needed and what can be accomplished successfully."

EXTENDS HOURS

Auto Club Will Be Open Until 8 P. M. For Tag Buyers.

With license plate sales for March lagging far behind 1941 figures, Frank Beverstock, secretary of the Richland County Auto club, announced that beginning today and continuing through March 31, the club will remain open until 8 p. m. to take care of motorists who have not yet purchased 1942 tags.

Because only four sales days remain until April 1 when 1941 plates may no longer be legally displayed, Beverstock urged motorists still without new tags to obtain them as soon as possible to avoid a last minute rush and long waiting lines.

Young Lecturer Tells Women Of War Torn 'Beastal' Europe

By BETTY STROTHER

Only 21, but a girl whose life in war-torn Europe is so packed with interesting experiences that it could provide volumes of interesting reading told about "Darkest Europe" yesterday in a lecture before the Mansfield Federation of Women.

Hungarian, and born in an airplane enroute from Budapest to Vienna, Gitta Sereny told her audience at the Ohio theater of her escape from occupied France and from what she called the "beastal" conditions in the Nazi-occupied countries.

She was in Austria when it was annexed in March, 1938, and says that even if she had been pro-Nazi before, she would have changed after what she saw in Vienna.

With the annexation of Austria, Miss Sereny declared, "people became beasts." She saw Raphael's "Madonna" picture in St. Stephen's church taken down and Hitler's picture hung in its place with candles in front of it. She saw masses of people kneeling before life-size pictures of Hitler; saw the great library, works and books of Prof. Ludwig von Misea destroyed by fire.

From Vienna, Miss Sereny went to Switzerland. After attending school in Geneva for two months she left for the University of Besancon, France. When the war broke out she was in Paris. There, she witnessed Nazi "trials" and in her lecture she cited many incidents of cruelty and hardship

COMMISSIONER RACE ASSURED

Bricker Says He'll Oppose Mitchell In Democratic Primary Election.

The contest for the Democratic nomination for county commissioner became a wide-open race today when Fred Bricker, Jackson township, announced he will oppose Commissioner C. L. Mitchell for re-election and two other Democrats indicated they may file for the office.

Bricker, former member of the county board of elections, entered the contest officially with the statement that "there should be a member of the board of commissioners from the northern half of the county."

Mitchell, seeking his third term on the board, began circulating nominating petitions several days ago. Only one commissioner will be nominated and elected this year. Other members of the board

County Finds It A Big Job to Get Truck Delivered

Richland county commissioners and County Engineer Howard Sword were beginning to wonder today if it's worth the effort required to get a new county truck under war priorities.

The county ordered a combination truck and snow plow for the road department last November before the nation entered the war. It reached the dealer here in January, but that's as far as it got.

After repeated unsuccessful attempts to get the truck delivered, Sword was informed today by the Office of Emergency Management at Toledo that he must prove conclusively that an old county truck which the commissioners planned to trade in can't be repaired and the county's present trucks can't be operated longer hours.

Sword estimated that it would cost more than $400 to repair the old truck, and he pointed out that the new one has special attachments which would make it of little value except in road work. He said he may go to Toledo to confer with OEM officials in a final attempt to have the truck released.

PROBE DEATH OF MOTHER OF 6 AT ASHLAND

Divorcee, Found Unconscious In Apartment, Dies Later at Hospital.

COMPANION HELD

Coroner Says Victim Could Have Been Poisoned; Plans To Conduct Autopsy.

ASHLAND — City and county authorities today were investigating mysterious circumstances surrounding the death last night of a 36-year-old divorcee

Police said Mrs. Flossie Norris, mother of six children, died in Samaritan hospital at 11:30 p. m., three hours after she had been admitted.

The woman, Police Chief M. D. McCarty said, was found unconscious in her modest two-room apartment. A male companion was also in the apartment.

Police identified him as Lee Burkett, 40, a factory worker, whom they booked at headquarters on a charge of intoxication. Chief McCarty said he would be held as a material witness.

Chief McCarty and Mayor Glenn Haller ordered the woman removed to the hospital after they had been called by a neighbor who reported that she was in "serious condition."

The body was removed to the Fickes funeral home at Jeromesville where Ashland County Coroner Dr. George Emery was to perform an autopsy today.

Dr. Emery said the woman was bleeding at the mouth when found by the officers and that it was possible that she may either have taken or had been given poison.

McCarty said the apartment in which the woman had lived alone had been locked pending outcome of the coroner's verdict.

He said he had learned that Mrs. Norris had been ill for some time and that she had been under a physician's care for the past week. He said he did not believe the woman had been drinking.

Officers said Mrs Norris had been divorced from her husband for sometime. Four of their children, they said, were in the Ashland county orphan's home and two others were staying with friends.

Her former husband, police said, is living in Ashland. He has not been questioned by police.

Archbishop Schrembs Receives Sacrament in Hospital.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Archbishop Joseph Schrembs, head of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, today received the last sacraments in St. John's hospital, where he is critically ill with a heart attack.

Bishop Schrembs, who was 76 last March 12, has been in poor health for more than a year. The spiritual leader of nearly one million Catholics, Bishop Schrembs, the son of a Bavarian blacksmith, came to the United States 64 years ago from Ratisbon, Bavaria.

He studied at St. Vincent's abbey at Beatty, Pa., and taught in Louisville, Ky. He was ordained in Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1889.

When he was installed as bishop of Toledo in 1911 Bishop Schrembs recognized the necessity for community funds and a fund was established in Toledo at about the same time as Cleveland's was set up. Bishop Schrembs came to Cleveland in 1921 and was prominently identified each year with community fund work.

Japs Launch Incessant Air Attack on Fort

Morning-to-Midnight Blasting Seen as Prelude to All-Out Offensive on Batan; Patrols Clash Sharply; Many Missiles Fall In Bay.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The Japanese have begun a round-the-clock aerial bombardment of Corregidor fortress in Manila bay and seem about ready to launch their big push in Batan.

The war department communique today, reporting more sharp clashes on Batan and movements of Japanese troops behind the lines, said this "indicated that increased activity may be expected."

Thus it appeared a big test was approaching for the outnumbered American and Filipino defenders now led by Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright.

The department reported that fortified Corregidor "was bombed almost continuously from early morning until midnight" yesterday, obviously as part of the Japanese prelude to an offensive. But most of the bombs fell in Manila bay. The bombs which did hit the fortress "did little damage."

"Early today," the communique reported, "the aerial attacks on our fortifications were resumed."

The communique related that the enemy was moving trucks and troops behind its lines in Batan facing those of Wainwright's main forces.

The Japanese were accompanying their ground activity with dive bomber attacks in the rear of Wainwright's lines "but without success," the communique said.

The tempo of the enemy air attacks on Corregidor resembled the intensity of the Axis aerial raids on Malta in the Mediterranean, where the British fortress has been subjected to periodic heavy air assaults for many months. Malta still holds out.

The communique said that in the fighting over Corregidor several enemy planes were believed to have been hit by American anti-aircraft fire.

The rocky fortress, guardian of the entrance to Manila bay, has held out defiantly so far against heavy Japanese bombers which have dumped at least 2,000 bombs since late December.

Today's bombing marked the fourth successive day of Japanese attack on the fortress, which so far has reported little damage to its military installations from the enemy pounding.

In some of their attacks the Japanese have used a new type of heavy bomber said to resemble our Boeing flying fortress. Japanese propaganda broadcasts also have claimed that a new type of explosive is being used.

But the new planes and explosives have failed to silence Corregidor's 10-inch guns.

Until Corregidor is overwhelmed Japanese invaders cannot use Manila bay. With nearby Forts Hughes, Drum and Frank, Corregidor blocks the entrance to the finest harbor of the far Pacific and the approach to Japanese-occupied Manila.

REPEAT: RAF Splashes 2-Ton Bombs on Krupp Arms Factory

(By Associated Press)

Giant four-engine British bombers, perhaps 250 strong and carrying two-ton explosives, smashed at Germany's great Krupp munitions works and other Nazi war foundries in the Ruhr last night. Pressing the spring aerial offensive in one of the heaviest assaults of the war.

By daylight, RAF fighter planes beat off a retaliatory German thrust.

The air ministry said today the huge bomber force concentrated on Essen, home of the Krupp works, striking in squadron after squadron, and also pounded enemy airdromes in German-occupied Holland, an oil refinery near Ghent and the docks at Le Havre, France.

The air ministry acknowledged the loss of 13 bombers.

It was the second successive night of heavy RAF assaults on the Ruhr industrial valley, and British quarters pointed out that the RAF's attempts to "flatten" the Krupp works came just when the production of tanks and munitions are vitally needed for Adolf Hitler's spring offensive.

Europe stirred uneasily in anticipation of Hitler's next move.

A London Daily Mail dispatch quoting reports from Berlin said King Boris of Bulgaria had agreed to break off relations with Russia, under German pressure, and to supply Hitler with 200,000 troops.

"Bulgarian divisions are moving toward the southern frontier, particularly toward the lower Maritza valley," the dispatch said—indicating a threat to British-Allied but still neutral Turkey.

SHAPE-UP: M'Arthur Moving Swiftly; Quezon In Australia

(By International News Service)

MELBOURNE—General Douglas MacArthur's plans to convert Australia into an "offensive base" against Japan took form and shape today as President Manuel Luis Quezon, loyal to the United States and still very much alive despite Japanese reports to the contrary, arrived in Australia to take his place in the high command.

There were a number of rapid-fire developments in the wake of General MacArthur's first consultations with the Australian war cabinet at Canberra yesterday:

1—The entire northern territory of Australia was placed under full military control.

2—Major General Thomas A. Blamey, commander-in-chief of Australian forces in the Middle East, returned to Australia to become commander-in-chief of United Nations land forces on the island continent.

3—A considerable portion of Australian forces formerly assigned to duty in the Middle East also came back home to play a major role in the "win or die" campaign which MacArthur has mapped out in concert with Australian Prime Minister John Curtin and Army Minister Francis Forde.

4—American and Australian bombers lashed out again at Koepang on Japanese-held Timor island, attacking enemy shipping and other targets in hazardous weather, while Japanese planes again raided Port Moresby without causing military damage or casualties.

Immediately upon his arrival in Canberra General Blamey

or suffer the same "loss of face" that prompted his predecessor, Lieut. Gen. Masahahau Homma to commit Hara-Kiri.

Based on the length of time Homma is known to have been in charge of the Japanese forces in the Philippines before he committed suicide, Yamashita, conqueror of Singapore, now has 27 days in which to win or acknowledge he could do no better than the man he succeeded.

Th war department made public Homma's presence on Batan Jan. 22, and 46 days later his death was reported following a long list of military setbacks. Fresh from victories over the British at Singapore, Yamashita's arrival on Batan was announced 19 days ago.

Since he took command, however, Yamashita has made little progress against Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright and must step up his operations to avoid chalking up the same ignominious record that Homma made against Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

This may be the reason behind the sudden renewal of large-scale bombing attacks against Corregidor and the three other forts guarding Manila Bay. They have played an important part in checking the Japanese in the Batan area.

Chinese Troops In Counter-Attack

NEW DELHI, India — (UP) — Veteran Chinese troops have opened a gallant counter-attack against Japanese forces who had surrounded them at Toungoo, after a fierce and unremitting 48-hour battle, it was reported today.

Early advices reported that the Chinece troops had scored local successes at several points in the first phase of their intrepid attack against the relentlessly pressing enemy forces.

The Japanese were reported to have strong airplane support.

There seemed no doubt that the battle was the grimmest of the Burma war as the Chinese veterans fought stubbornly to escape entrapment.

For 48 hours the Japanese had hurled themselves against the strongly fortified Chinese line.

The Chinese seasoned troops of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's 5th and 6th armies, had held off the tanks, armored cars and field guns, backed up by troops in civilian dress who sought to infiltrate their lines.

Reports that the Chinese were surrounded at Toungoo, 200 miles below Mandalay, were taken here as evidence of the seriousness of the Allied position.

But at the same time it was said that the Chinese were fighting fiercely, hoping for the arrival at any hour of powerful reinforcements believed here to be on the way.

McCloy declared that he visited all the principal islands in the Hawaiian group and said that defense weaknesses now have been corrected to a great extent.

Japs Send Ships To Bay of Bengal

brought about by the Germans.

In Paris, Miss Sereny became acquainted with Helen Hiett, NBC newscaster from the United States. The Hungarian girl helped Miss Hiett with her Paris Letter and her broadcasts and the two became close friends. At the beginning of the war Miss Hiett had to leave Paris but Miss Sereny stayed on and worked as a nurse with the Auxiliare Sociale. She took care of homeless, frightened, forlorn youngsters. She also had the opportunity of seeing the great Doctor Alexis Carrel work.

This young woman lived through more than a year of what is called "the German occupation of northern France." She says that her experiences there "were pretty bad in many cases; too bad in some." Miss Sereny learned that hate and getting used to danger banish fear.

While in charge of the homeless children, she and the boys and girls were machine gunned on a French road.

It was in the uniform of an Auxiliare Sociale nurse that Miss Sereny, 20 years old then, made her daring escape from occupied France without luggage and without money. She went first to Spain, where she was urged to tell Americans of Franco's good work and the Spaniards' happiness.

In Lisbon, Portugal, Miss Sereny was befriended by an "upper class" family which observed the custom of "dressing" for dinner. She explained to her hostess that she had been unable to bring extra clothing with her from France. The obliging hostess instructed her maid to make a gown for Miss Sereny from 150 colored Turkish scarfs. Within 90 minutes the gown was ready to wear.

Miss Sereny was born March 31, 1921. Her mother was a well known actress and young Gitta inherited this talent. After attending school in Hungary and England, she passed entrance examinations for Max Reinhardt's dramatic school in Vienna. She describes this event as "the height of dramatic possibilities."

From the Reinhardt school Miss Sereny was selected to play a lead in a German film opposite Luis Trenker, German film hero and friend of Hitler. When the Germans "made fun" of her Viennese friends because they loved art more than just system, Miss Sereny says that she became angry and refused the role.

Miss Sereny's mother and stepfather are also in this country. Does she expect to remain in this country from now on? Her reply to that question is in the negative. For, while studying at the Sorbonne in Paris she met a young Englishman to whom she is now engaged. At present he is with the British army in Ligya. They plan to marry after the war.

Miss Sereny was guest of the Federation at a luncheon served at the Women's Club following her lecture. On April 14 the Federation will have a tea and annual meeting at the same place.

SOLDIER FOOD COSTS INCREASE

Committee Told Boost in Prices, Not Better Fare, Causes Rise.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The cost of feeding the average American soldier has risen from 44 cents a day to 61 cents a day in the last year, testimony before the house appropriations committee disclosed today.

Quartermaster corps officials, however, told the committee that this was due to rising costs of food—not to the doughboy getting any more or better meals.

In response to a committee request, figures were put into the record to show that there are at present 3,842 Japanese of American citizenry in the United States army, of which 1,298 were inducted in Hawaii.

Truman said that, because of delay in getting the synthetic rubber program started, there was little hope that tires could be produced with it for ordinary civilian uses until early in 1945. He said Standard would be called upon to produce 200,000 out of 400,000 tons in the current program just getting started, with the remainder being manufactured by United States Rubber, Firestone, Goodyear and Goodrich.

Most of the production through 1934 and 1944 would be for military use, he said.

Citing a consent decree entered early this week in federal district court in New Jersey, Arnold said Standard would be compelled to license anyone royalty free under the valuable synthetic rubber patents and must further make available the technical knowledge of how to operate the patents.

"I must confess," Arnold said in a statement in the Record today, "that I was reluctant to sign the decree because the decree does not have in it a provision allowing either the attorney genral or the court to pass upon the future relations between I. G. Farben and Standard Oil. . . ."

Arnold was recalled before the committee today to complete reading a lengthy prepared statement in which he charged Standard of New Jersey had "frustrated the creation of an American synthetic rubber industry" because of an agreement giving the German company a virtual world right-of-way for manufacture of the product in return for concessions on oil and synthetic gasoline.

Arnold's disclosures were such that Truman told reporters he was convinced Standard had "held up the synthetic rubber program for its own welfare and benefit even after we got in the war."

"I think this approaches treason," the committee chairman rapped, "and I am going to give the company officials an opportunity to explain why it isn't, if they can."

BURNS FATAL

Boy Dies After Setting Match to Old Oil Drum.'

AKRON—(INS)—Burned critically when he lit a match to look into an old metal oil drum in a junkyard, Robert Rolenz, 15, died today in City hospital.

Rolenz and a schoolmate, Frank Cernova, 16, had started to clean the drum when Rolenz lit a match and looked inside. An explosion followed, burning both Rolenz and Cernova, the former fatally.

CARE FOR YOUR CAR—for your Country!

ANOTHER SOHIO SERVICE

This Standard Oil Suggestion is —to keep my car from getting "seedy"?

First it was just a bit of paint scraped off the fender. Then it was a rust spot . . . then a hole clear through. Remember? Or maybe the bumper just rattled a bit because a bolt was loose. But later it broke off. These days you have to take care of the "little things" promptly. A dent straightened out, a spot of touch-up enamel, a periodic checking over and tightening—and your car's body will stay "in the pink."

O.K.'S REMOVAL

Civil Service Commission Upholds Daubenmire Discharge.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The state civil service today upheld the removal of Carl R. Daubenmire as chief of examiners of steam engineers by George A. Strain, jr., director of industrial relations.

Daubenmire was ousted from his $300 a month post last Dec. 27 on general charges of failure of good behavior and specifically that he conspired and caused to be printed a bulletin to members of the National Association of Power Engineers in Ohio to the effect that Strain was involved in issuing licenses for money.

DIES IN FIRE

Baby Burned To Death as Flames Sweep Through Tenement.

NEW YORK — (INS) — A 17-months-old baby was burned to death and many other persons, trapped on fire-escapes, had to be helped down ladders today as flames swept a six-story tenement building in Greenwich village.

The baby's body was found on a fire-escape. Cause of the blaze was not immediately learned.

M'ARTHUR PLANS TAKING SHAPE

Australia Being Converted Into Offensive Base as Quezon Arrives.

issued a statement which said:

"We must be prepared to expect the danger of invasion and do everything to prevent it.

"I will meet General MacArthur as soon as possible. His appointment was the only workable arrangement.

In reaching Australia, Quezon followed the daring precedent of MacArthur by making his way through enemy-infested waters from the beleaguered Philippines.

General MacArthur's headquarters announced that Quezon, accompanied by his immediate family and his war cabinet had arrived safely in Australia, and would continue to exercise the functions of his government in close association with MacArthur, just as he had done in the Philippines.

Quezon's arrival in the island continent was significant both for its own sake and because it spiked simultaneously a series of Japanese rumors which variously listed the islands' president as a pneumonia casualty and a "purge" victim by order of General MacArthur himself. The Jap reports obviously were "feelers" put out with the hope of gaining accurate information as to Quezon's whereabouts, observers agreed.

It was presumed that the Philippine commonwealth war cabinet would be incorporated into the United Nations southwest Pacific board of strategy under MacArthur.

Quezon thus will rejoin the American military expert he once named field marshal of the Philippine army in a precedent-shattering move.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MARCH 27, 1942.

After another look around, it appears that people are not complacent—they are impatient.

Observer reports: "The middle west is much more interested in winning the war than in politics"—in fact, politics might be given a place even further down in the list.

The traveling salesman's idea of Utopia must have been closely approached in that WPB report on expenditures which included the item, "Miscellaneous—$4,709,000,000."

Weed Out the War Profiteers

THE EXTENT to which "for the duration" enters into agreements to keep profits within reasonable bounds, forego double pay for Sunday work, and the like, discourages hope of permanency in the solution of disturbing national problems.

It is being contended that the Jack & Heintz case, with its revelation of high salaries, fabulous bonuses and excessive profits on a government contract, is an isolated example of chicanery, rather than typical of industrial and business attitude toward dealings that involve public money.

It may at least be hoped that this is true and that no more than the national average of crooks are engaged in the particular field of producing war supplies or otherwise gaining access to public funds.

When it is considered, however, that in even such a minor matter as installation of parking meters in Mansfield, a liberal commission "cut" was floating around looking for a place to land, and with recollection of the many instances in which extortionate prices have been paid for public equipment and supplies, merely because the money came from taxpayers instead of private accounts, it is sometimes wondered whether the whole fabric of governmental business, in its large and small units, isn't shot through with sharp practices based on self interest.

An unfortunate feature of the Jack & Heintz affair, coming in the midst of revelations of construction profiteering at army camps and labor racketeering on initiation fees and dues, is that the general public—and particularly those in military service—get an idea that the national war effort, which they regard seriously, is being considered by some unscrupulous persons as no more than an easy avenue to enrichment of themselves—at the expense of millions who are called upon to pay more and more taxes.

Action by congress, and by the administration, should be such as to free the minds of Americans of that suspicion at the earliest possible moment.

Judge Huston's Record of Service

RECOGNITION and appreciation of capability and integrity in the performance of duties of public office are especially important at a time when grave responsibilities rest upon everyone, and when community, state and national welfare are more than ordinarily dependent on the reliability, honesty and experience of officials.

Of timely interest in this connection is the fact that this year's election includes choice of common pleas judge and that this office is now being so satisfactorily and creditably administered that many people in Mansfield and Richland county deem it wise to urge Charles H. Huston, present judge, to continue in that capacity for another term—without necessity for engaging in a campaign for this non-partisan post.

Those who have had opportunity to gain first-hand knowledge of Judge Huston's record on the common pleas bench of this county will need no reminding of the fairness, energy, ability, and economical practices he has carried into the performance of his judicial duties, and, without exception, his service on the bench in other counties of the state has been accorded high commendation by attorneys and associates.

The uniformity with which Judge Huston's decisions have been upheld by higher courts is in itself a tribute to his good judgment and knowledge of the law, and also reflects credit on the county he serves.

In earlier years, when there was need for military service, Judge Huston considered no personal sacrifice too great to make for his country, as evidenced by his voluntary service in the Spanish-American war, afterward on the Mexican border and in the World war with the American forces in France, during which he was advanced from captain to the rank of major.

This creditable military record combines with a keen legal mind, judicial experience, unfailing civic interest and broad understanding of national and international conditions and problems, in justifying the view that now, while younger men are being called to performance of military tasks, or given opportunity to serve in essential civilian capacities to which they are fitted, the services of older more experienced men should be retained—as long as possible—in the work for which they have proved ability.

Nor should it be necessary, under the circumstances, for Judge Huston to devote time and energy to campaigning—in the event of decision to accede to requests that he continue in office for another term. Election of judges is by non-partisan ballot, with party politics removed as far as possible from influencing choice, and it is only in instances of probable benefit by change that opposition to re-election of a common pleas judge appears warranted.

Judge Huston's services to his city, his county and his country have been so able, sincere, conscientious and capable that it should need only an announcement that he is willing to continue to serve through another term to assure his re-election without opposition.

Don't Start Hoarding Razor Blades

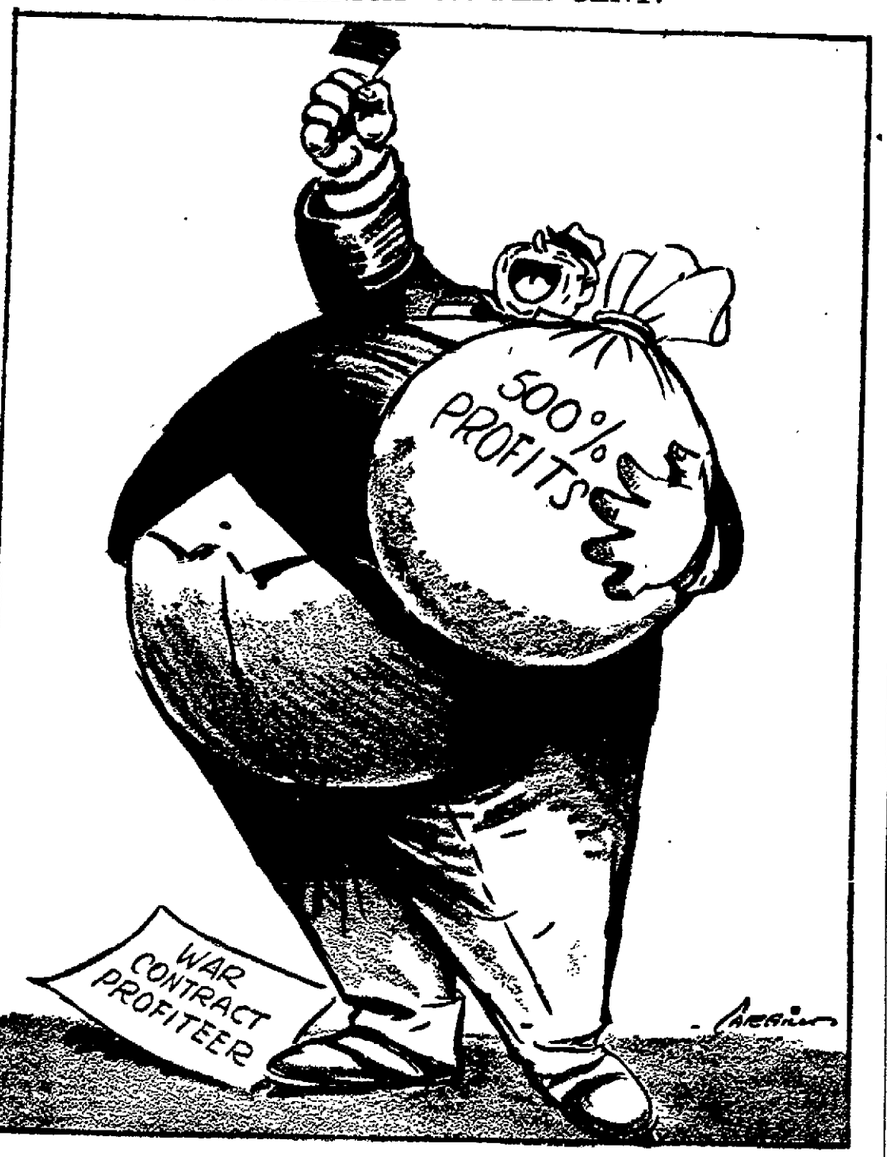
THEY'RE such thin little things—those safety razor blades—that it's hard to realize that a couple of billion of them—a year's normal supply in the United States—could stack up to make up the appreciable item of several thousand tons of high grade steel needed for war materials.

There's to be a shortage of safety razor blades—but why not require that an equal number of old blades be turned in when purchases are made? Some of these were sent back by the Japs, in the form of shrapnel, and opportunity may open for reciprocation.

Some home shavers will also recall that sharpeners for safety razor blades were on the market and in use not so many years ago and that these devices made possible the use of a single blade for several weeks, or months.

Anyhow, there are more important things to worry about just now than the remote possibility of full beards again coming into vogue.

"FOR AMERICA—500 PER CENT!"



Hitler Worried By Jap Successes

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—There are increasing evidences that Adolf Hitler is a little bit worried about Japanese successes in the Southwest Pacific. Not that Hitler is confiding to any of our sources what he thinks, but we do know what he is letting the German people be told, and it is not difficult, at times, to read between the lines when one knows that what is printed not only has government approval, but is government inspired.

There are two distinct possibilities which this line of thought might produce. One is an attempt by Germany to end the war before Japan gets a strangle hold on her own conquests. Bear in mind here that the Nazis apparently—again judging from the comments the government of Berlin permits—are even more surprised at the extent of Japanese success than we are, which is saying quite a lot.

So the Nazis confidently expect, now, that Japan will wind up not only with all of the Dutch East Indies, but with Australia and New Zealand as well, not to mention India, Ceylon, Madagascar, Burma, and the Philippines. In fact the Germans are openly talking about South Africa.

NATURALLY, the Germans have no confidence in altruism on the part of the Japs. They know what happened in the last war, when Japan seized Shantung and kept it, not bothering to fight any more after she got what she wanted. They know about the former German islands which were mandated to Japan. They know the Japs have no thought of ever giving them back to Germany.

More important, they know what Japan will do AFTER the war with every bit of territory she is able to acquire, assuming Axis victory. Those markets will be closed to Germany, as to the rest of the world, just as Japan closed Manchukuo before this war began.

Now all this, though clear to the Nazis (they are protesting in their newspapers that of course Japan is NOT going to do this) is not at all in line with the German vision of the New Order. Germany does not want some of the most productive land in the world, and the largest supply of cheap labor in the world, exploited by a rival nation, and certainly Japan would be a very active rival for Germany after the war in the event of Axis victory.

So it is just possible that the thought may occur to Germany that if she can just keep most of what she has taken in Europe, and let the United Nations take care of Japan, it might be better for the Nazis in the long run.

THIS may sound absurd at first blush, but the Nazis, like the Japanese, look a long way ahead. They have no fear that, once the war is over, the much despised democracies will penalize themselves by continuing to be prepared for another war. In other words, if they can come out of this war with a big profit in land and enslaved peoples, and meanwhile the one nation which has shown it is just as relentless in its war preparations as the Nazis themselves, should be very badly smashed, that might not present a bad outlook. And "next time" they could figure on finishing the job!

That, of course, is the fly in the ointment. Roosevelt and Churchill are not likely to accept any Nazi peace proposal, no matter what the terms.

But if the Germans are thinking about anything of the kind, the Japs would be doing a little thinking also. They would not hesitate a moment to throw Germany overboard if Japan's interests would thereby be served. Here again is the impossibility of any Tokyo proposal being taken seriously by the United Nations.

Timely Editorial

Danger Signal.

Both labor and management would do well to heed the warning of Donald M. Nelson of the WPB. Speaking to the C. I. O. in a Washington conference, Mr. Nelson says that now he is interested in only one thing—production. That would go for the supreme interest of the American people.

But if it isn't made the predominant concern of labor and management, if they can't "sink their differences, forget their suspicions and work together" then there can be but one result — government restrictions that neither will like and restrictions that may be carried over even after the war has ended.

This is a plain, middle-of-the-road statement of the situation. It implies no partiality, no prejudice. It is wholly disinterested so far as the two parties are concerned. Yet it comes from the key man in the government's production setup. It is fair notice of trouble ahead that can be avoided.—Kansas City Star.

Parsifal Walk-Out

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Lauritz Melchior, mighty Siegfried of the Met, sends in a note. He wants to explain why he ignores certain instructions laid down by the great Wagner himself when he sings Parsifal.

Every year, when Melchior sings Parsifal, there is one scene in the first act when he leaves the stage. Wagner thought Parsifal should remain on the stage. Students of Wagner, horrified at this flouting of tradition, never fail to lambast the good-natured Dane.

NOW Parsifal is coming up again, and the thoughtful Melchior wants to point out a few little matters in advance, so that the critics won't be horrified and grieved all over again. For, as usual, he plans to leave the stage, just as he always has left it, Wagner or no. Here is his note:

"Each year around this time, with the regularity of the seasons, three major events take place in my life—my income tax, Parsifal at the Met, and the subsequent observations of the music critics concerning my departure from the stage during the first temple scene of the opera.

"These comments, varied as they are, have a single characteristic in common. They all decry the fact that in leaving the stage I am thus flouting a tradition 'of long standing.'

"Allow me to explain my position, which in this case, is behind the wings. Just as you yourselves have discussed the matter so did my good friend Arthur Bodanzky (now dead) and I. Mr. Bodanzky reached the conclusion, which in the interest of clarity might be summed up by the phrase, 'A healthy Parsifal offstage is better than one that is hoarse for Siegfried the next day.'

"UNROMANTIC drafts, inconsiderate winds that blow in from the Seventh avenue entrance of the Metropolitan stage when the scenery is being sent over for storage resulted in the philosophy which determined the course of the action in the opera. We were faced with the problem either of defying the winds of Providence or the accepted tradition of Wagner at these performances.

"Bodanzky decided against the first because he felt I should brave the cold reception of the critics rather than grippe with a soupcon of pneumonia. I admit it took a great deal of courage at first. Certainly it meant braving the wrath of adherents to a tradition of many years. But on second thought, I merely bowed to an older tradition, one that began with man himself—the tradition of 'The Common Cold'.

"Cordially,

Lauritz Melchior."

GOP Group Meets With Willkie To Map Anti-Isolationist Strategy

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One of the most significant political moves of the year took place very quietly in New York this week, when 17 members of the Republican national committee sat down to discuss future policy with Wendell Willkie.

The meeting represented a new move to (1) get away from the isolationist leadership of Chairman Joe Martin, and (2) chart a future Republican program of 100 per cent support for the war, coupled with fairminded criticism of war inefficiency in Washington.

The meeting was not called by Willkie himself, but took place at the suggestion of various Republican leaders. They reported to him that they were worried over the Republican party assuming an isolationist position; and that such a large number of Republicans in congress had voted against every defense measure before our entrance into the war. They also said they wanted to make sure that Republicans did not start a movement to do what the Republicans did to Woodrow Wilson's peace plans after the first World war.

Finally, these 17 GOP national committeemen reported to Willkie that they were pretty sure the Republicans would carry the house of representatives next fall, but they were concerned lest it be carried by Republican isolationists. The last thing they wanted, they said, was a house of representatives composed of Ham Fishes.

The New York meeting also expressed dissatisfaction over Author Clarence Budington Kelland, now Republican publicity director, who, as one GOP leader expressed it, "thinks he's now chairman of the Republican national committee, but actually is just a baby in Joe Martin's hands."

Chief strategy discussed at the New York meeting was how to revamp party leadership along non-isolationist lines and the possibility of a new chairman when the national committee meets in April.

Note:—Wendell Willkie this week gives a bluntly frank magazine interview relating what he told Roosevelt about not serving in the administration although he would continue support for Roosevelt's foreign policies.

DeGaulle Arrests Admiral.

UNCENSORED diplomatic dispatches indicate that things are not going well inside the Free French organization. Admiral Muselier, head of the Free French fleet, has actually been placed under arrest by General DeGaulle in London.

General DeGaulle has his own barracks and headquarters in London and is given the extra-territoria status of a foreign government. Therefore, he can imprison any of his officers on British soil and the British have nothing to say about it. Thus Muselier is imprisoned in London.

So far, word of Admiral Muselier's arrest has not leaked out except to members of the Free French fleet, who are reported to be up in arms. In fact, other Free French naval officers have served notice on DeGaulle that unless Muselier is released immediately, the entire Free French fleet will join the British navy.

At present Admiral Auboinau has taken Admiral Muselier's place.

Admiral Muselier is the man who occupied the North Atlantic islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon and brought down upon his head a storm of abuse from Secretary of State Hull. He is intensely pro-republican, and this is one of the trouble spots inside the Free French organization.

Many Free French leaders belonged to French fascist groups before the war, and DeGaulle himself never was considered any disciple of democracy. Muselier, on the other hand, not only was an ardent advocate of republicanism, but surrounded himself with republican officers. This is reported to be why the DeGaulle clique finally stepped in and removed him.

Note:—DeGaulle's uncertain position toward democracy is one big reason why he has never had any extensive following from the mass of the French people.

Congressional Boodle.

CONGRESS never had a sharper eye for economy than at this session. Every non-defense appropriation is noisily scrutinized and pared to the bone—except for appropriations directly affecting congress.

A few days ago the house, without a murmur of dissent, passed a juicy bill for congressional expenses which left no doubt that the boys definitely do not believe that economy should begin at home.

Representative Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and others who had harangued against "excessive travel allowances" in the agriculture department's appropriation, didn't open their mouths about the $171,000 that taxpayers will be tapped for to pay congress' travel bill—at 20 cents a mile.

Nor did they say one word about other lush gravy items, such as:

"Duffle boxes"—(trunks furnished free to congressmen for their papers and personal effects) —$3,500. This is $500 more than is being spent this fiscal year for this purpose.

Free stationery—$92,000. This is one of the worst grabs of all, since members can take their allowance in cash instead of stationery, and most of them do.

Laundry—$9,000, an increase of $5,155, or about 80 per cent over the last appropriation.

"Folding room" expenses—$30,000. This is for folding the speeches of congressmen that are printed at cost in the government printing office, and mailed without any cost at all. Last year's congressional franking cost taxpayers the pocket-gouging sum of $926,686.

Out-of-town newspapers—$2,000. This is a neat little "graft" which enables members to keep abreast of political developments back home, without shelling out for subscriptions themselves.

Air mail and special delivery stamps—$21,900. This handout is in addition to the franking privilege.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The burst of economy sentiment in congress is getting close to home in a way that is a little embarrassing to some senators.

Ever since the clamor about "frippery" and "coordinators of coordinators" started echoing around Capitol Hill, senators and congressmen have been making speeches about the mountains of protest mail they have been receiving from the folks at home.

SENATOR TYDINGS (D., Md.) saw what was coming—a demand for more secretarial help to take care of the mail. Last year it was proposed that each senator be allowed an additional $4,500-a-year assistant, but the bill was defeated after sharp debate.

As chairman of the legislative appropriations subcommittee, which recommends how much should be spent for secretaries, Tydings made up a table showing how many letters each senator received from Jan. 8 to Feb. 28, inclusive—51 days. He inserted the table into the Congressional Record.

His object, he dryly informed the senate, was to "show what senators claim they are receiving in the way of mail and what they have actually received." He hoped to "evolve a system which will be fair to all and which will bring the greatest amount of relief to those who have been overburdened with mail."

Tydings granted that senatorial mailbags have been bulkier since voters really warmed up to the subjects of labor, war effort and economy, but he suggested that even so some of his colleagues may have been letting their imaginations run.

* * *

WHAT did the table show? Well, here are the first ten (not necessarily the ones who have been doing the most talking):

1. Senator Brooks (R., Ill.) average of 401 letters a day.
2. Senator Mead (D., N. Y.) 260.
3. Senator Connally (D., Tex.) 219.
4. Senator O'Daniel (D., Tex.) 204.
5. Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) 184.
6. Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) 180.
7. Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) 173.
8. Senator Tydings (D., Md.) 163.
9. Senator Wagner (D., N. Y.) 156.
10. Senator Byrd (D., Va.) 154.

For the most part, you'll note, these senators are from the most heavily populated states. Tydings' own state, however, is 28th in population and Pepper's is 27th. Virginia, the state of Senator Byrd, the leading senate economy advocate, is 19th.

A Farmer's Diary

It's Coming Closer

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

A QUIET American farm, with spring just around the corner, seems far removed from scenes of actual war, and yet, almost overnight, two incidents have happened that make the world seem smaller.

John is a local boy who was sent to Camp Lee. I have known him for several years. I had two letters from him, several weeks apart, "written by the bunk, after chow, with the sun down." In one, he described the lowering of the flag at close of day. "It sure is a beautiful sight to see all those soldiers standing silent, no whisper — maybe an occasional cough—all united for one purpose, to defend good old Uncle Sam, if need be. The bugle blows, the officers salute, the cannon roars and the flag is lowered. It is the end of a soldier's day—you would be inspired, to see it."

When next he wrote the tempo of his words had changed. . . had speeded up. "They say we'll be leaving here in a few days more—I don't know where for. I hope I can finish my line of training, but maybe not. Best of luck—and I'll write you, if I can."

I happened to meet this boy's father at his business place on Saturday. "What do you hear from John?" I inquired.

The answer came quickly, and was something of a shock. "He got to Australia!"

FIERCEST, bloodiest battle ever known—in the Java Sea," said a headline. And just below, "Commander was born near here."

My wife drew a quick sharp breath when I read the name.

"You knew him?" I asked.

"The family lived in our town when I was a girl at home. His sister and he were often at our house. He was a towheaded little blue eyed boy, then, of 11 or 12. His father was a surveyor, and they moved very often. Seldom lived more than two or three years in one place. They made friends everywhere — they were friendly charming people. He went to Ohio State—and eventually to Annapolis. The sea suited him. And to think that little boy was commander of the destroyer Pope, with 145 men under him! Trapped in company with British and Australian vessels, they dispersed and tried to run through narrow straits . . . the navy has apparently given up hope that any of the personnel was saved, and has notified the nearest kin.

How much worse it seems when folks you know are actually in the fighting!

CHAPTER VII

It was almost dark when he opened his eyes. He remembered at once where he was and what had happened. He crawled a few paces and listened. The house was silent. Had they killed her? His breath shook out of him in gasps. He felt terribly ill. Tomorrow — he'd tell his grandmother about Sven. They'd take Renee away from him. Tomorrow—he couldn't do anything now. Tomorrow—Sven—the dirty, horrible, monstrous, terrible dog—tomorrow! He could not keep to the path. It kept swinging out from under him—slipping to one side—slithering from under his feet. . . . He tore his hands in the rose trellis.

He stumbled up the steps of the terrace. He heard Anna's startled exclamation as he stepped into the blinding lamplight, and then his grandmother saying, "Nom de Dieu! Anna, vite, de l'eau. . . ."

Dr. Gordon came, but Parris could not see him clearly. He heard questions, and tried to answer. Faces without bodies attached to them seemed to float over the bed. They came close, and enormous eyes looked at him. He tried to get away but could not. He tried hard to think. He said Renee—Renee—Renee, over and over. What was happening to her? Maybe she was still lying on the floor behind that locked door. Maybe she was lying in bed—all bloody. He screamed and pushed at Dr. Gordon's face. Then he felt someone hold his hands and force him back on the pillow. He knew he was falling through the pillow —through the bed—through the floor—down a long shining tunnel that dwindled away and away to a tiny shimmering point. He was rushing violently toward that minute spark at the end of the slippery tunnel . . .

When he awoke it was dark outside. There was a shaded light in the corner, and someone was in the big rocking chair.

"Anna!" He could hardly hear himself—such a funny weak croak he made!

Anna ran to the door. "Madame, bitte komm!"

In a moment his grandmother leaned over him. "Parris," she said very softly.

"Yes." He tried to move.

"S-sh! Not now, tomorrow you can talk, perhaps."

He waked and slept and waked again but never for very long. Then one morning the objects in the room were steadier and clearer, but the inside of his head was heavy as lead. His temples seemed to spread out like balloons—then he floated for a moment until the heaviness returned and thrust his head down hard into the pillow.

He lay half awake and tried once more to think. A wagon rattled along the drive below the terrace. He heard a whip crack. A quick little cry escaped his lips. That was it! Renee!

His grandmother was instantly beside the bed. "Parris, what is it?"

"Where's Renee?"

"She's not here just now, dear. Try to lie still."

He wailed a little. "But where is she?"

Madame laid one of her wrinkled little hands on his. "Renee has gone away, Parris."

"Gone? Gone away? Where?"

"Well, I don't know, dear. Her father moved away somewhere."

All of the breath went out of him.

His face drew up, but he couldn't cry. "Oh, oh!" he said weakly.

Renee was gone. He knew he would never see her again. He felt his stomach shake, but his eyes were quite dry.

"Parris! My darling child—you mustn't. I'll try to send for Renee if you'll be very quiet and not worry."

He knew his grandmother could not. Never, never, never!

"What time is it?"

"Why—I don't know, child. Almost seven, I suppose."

"I mean—no, no—I mean what time this week?"

"Oh—it's Sunday."

"Goodness! Why, I got sick last Tuesday, didn't I?"

"Longer than that, dear. It's the middle of August."

"The—middle—of—August?" He whispered the words. "Have I been—"

"You've been unconscious for weeks, Parris. You see now how very sick you have been, and how careful you'll have to be."

"What's the matter with me?"

"You've had fever—a very bad fever."

He was silent for a few minutes. He turned his head very slowly on the pillow and looked out of the window. "When — when did she go away?"

"What? Oh! The Gyllinsons left just the day after you took sick."

"Why?"

"Well, Sven told me he had the offer of better wages and he'd have to go. I hated to lose him. He was a good manager."

"Did Renee—did—" He couldn't frame the question; he feared the answer.

"I didn't see Renee, Parris. Anna said she came to the kitchen door that morning. She thought Renee seemed very frightened—maybe because she heard you were so sick. She ran away again very quickly. Sven made up his mind very suddenly. It seemed queer."

"Where did they go?"

"I don't know, dear. I don't think Sven told anyone. He packed up in a hurry and went off. I think down toward the Ozark mountains somewhere. Now don't talk any more. Try to go to sleep. You'll be getting strong soon, now."

His convalescence was slow and tedious. Gradually he learned to take a few steps, and then to walk without leaning on Anna.

It was a long time before he could bring himself to so much as look toward the Gyllinson cottage. It stood empty and close shuttered. The sight of it struck him with an almost physical impact. He wanted to lie down and cry when he thought of Renee and what had happened to her. He blamed himself. He could hear again her voice saying, "Maybe we'd better go back."

* * *

"I guess Uncle Henry could hitch up and take me to school next week, couldn't he?" Parris asked the question a bit diffidently one morning at breakfast. "I guess I couldn't walk that far yet?"

Madame folded her napkin carefully, placed it beside her plate, and hunted in her reticule for her glasses before she replied.

"You're not going to school this year, Parris."

"Wha-at?" His eyes opened very wide with astonishment.

"You won't be strong enough to start next week, and I have decided to get a tutor for you this winter. You can study at home."

"Oh, goodness." The tone of his voice dropped a little. It was mixed with dismay. School was really not bad. He had been looking forward to seeing everybody again.

"Besides," Madame continued, "you need study in German and French that you don't get at school."

"Oh, dear. I don't know—"

"I'll arrange at Aberdeen college to get a nice young man to come here and hear your lessons. You can study at home, and I'm sure you will make better progress anyway. Of course you can go on with your piano lessons if you want to."

Paris knew that tone in his grandmother's voice. It was settled. He sighed. "All right," he said.

* * *

It was not until Thurston St. George called on his grandmother one warm afternoon that Parris learned, from their conversation, the nature of his illness.

"So this is your grandson!" Massive Mr. St. George affected surprise. "I'd never have known you, boy. Been sick, I hear."

"Yes sir."

"What's the matter?"

Madame interrupted hastily. "It seems to have been a spell of—brain fever."

"Hmm. That's not so good. Been studying too hard, sonny?"

"I—I don't think so, sir."

"Parris, ask Anna to make some lemonade.

The talk had run to other matters when he returned with glasses and a pitcher making a pleasant tinkle of ice.

"By the way, Marie," Mr. St. George was saying, "I hear you've lost your overseer. Know old Tom Carr?"

"Oh, yes. Big bushy head of white hair? I've seen him."

"Believe he'd be a good man for you."

With all the war work I'm doing these days, shopping just wears me to a frazzle. How do you ever manage to get so much done with so little time?
It's easy, Dorothy. I check the ads more carefully than ever, to see where I can get what I want. Saves a lot of time and money ...and besides, I know what I'm getting.

In wartime, ADVERTISING performs even greater services for you

For all of us, life is different from what it used to be. All of us are busy with war work and war problems. All of us are pressed for time. All of us are watching our expenditures more carefully than ever. Anything that saves us time and energy and money performs a very vital service today. Advertising does that.

In days like these, advertising performs even greater services for us than in normal times. In days like these, especially, we are thankful that we have advertising to rely upon. It gives us up-to-date and reliable buying news...something which we need today more than ever before. • It tells us of new products and services...new prices, new uses, new sizes, new containers. It advises us on how to economize, how to conserve what we have...and how to cooperate with the government's war program. It instructs us on what to do to protect our lives and our homes in case of emergency. It lets us know what the manufacturers of rationed products are doing to help win the war. • Above all else, it maintains the flow of available goods from producer to consumer...and in doing this, advertising not only makes it possible for millions of people to keep their jobs in factories, stores, and offices, but also protects, for the peacetime years to come, the high standards of American life ...Advertising, which has served you and the nation so well in the past, is serving you and the nation even better today.

PROGRAM SET

Mansfield K. of C. Council To Join in Observance.

Mansfield council No. 687, Knights of Columbus, will join Sunday in the observance of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the K. of C. order.

Thomas J. McDermott, grand knight of the Mansfield council, said Mansfield members will attend a breakfast immediately after the 8 a. m. mass Sunday at the council home, 157 West Fourth street.

The K. of C. has 2,500 councils in the United States and eight other countries. The order was founded in 1882 at New Haven, Conn., by Rev. Michael J. McGivney and a small group of Catholic laymen.

BOOK LECTURER WHO WAS IN GERMANY DURING HITLER REVOLT

The second and final lecture of the series on current events and trends, sponsored by the Rotary and University clubs will bring David H. Popper to Mansfield Thursday, April 2.

Popper, who is a member of the research staff of the Foreign Policy association, will speak at John Simpson Junior high auditorium. The hour of his address has been set for 8:30, in order not to interefere with the Holy week communion services arranged for that evening in numerous Mansfield churches.

His subject will be "South America." He returned to United States in January after spending eight months in South American countries.

A graduate of Harvard, where he also obtained his master's degree, Popper spent four years in Germany during the Hitler revolution. He is a member of the editorial board of the magazine "Amerasia" and has contributed articles to Survey Graphic, New Republic, Saturday Review of Literature, American Political Science Review, and the New York Herald Tribune.

The musical pitch standard broadcast by the Bureau of Standards is accurate to one part in ten million.

Ward Off Gas Pains

Gas Crowds Heart

"For years constipation caused me headaches and pains in the back. Awful gas bloating crowded my heart. World's Tonic helped right away. Now I eat sausage bananas, pie, anything I want and never felt better." — Mrs. John Hattery, 704 8th St. S. W., Massillon, O. Two things happen when you are constipated. FIRST: Accumulated wastes swell up bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. SECOND: partly digested food starts to decay, forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach, indigestion, and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath. World's Tonic gives double relief with DOUBLE ACTION. World's Tonic relieves STOMACH GAS almost at once. It often clears bowels in less than two hours. No griping, no after effects, just quick results. Skillful blending of roots and herbs enables World's Tonic to help prevent premature aging which poisons accumulating from constipation may bring on. Get World's Tonic at Miller, Wm. T. Hursh, Weinberger, and all other up-to-date drug stores. (J 14)

RUSSIA AT WAR DESCRIBED IN CALDWELL BOOK

People's Army, Bombings All Embraced In 'All-Out on Road to Smolensk.'

Erskine Caldwell, noted American novelist, gives a close-up of what Russia at war is really like in his eye-witness story, "All-Out On the Road to Smolensk"

Now available at the Mansfield Public Library, Caldwell's book dealing with the Soviet union today describes the fighting pilots of the Red Air Force, the legendary People's army, the bombing, tanks and prisoners of war, in short, everything embraced in the country's will to victory.

OUR HAWAII by Erna Ferguson will give you a real understanding of what Hawaii is today. With the same insight which has made her books on Guatemala and Venezuela pre-eminent in their field, the author has given us a fine book on the Hawaiian Islands and their people—customs, foods, entertainments, etc. And like her other books it is lavishly illustrated with photographs.

CLARA BARTON, DAUGHTER OF DESTINY, by Blanche C. Williams is the most authoritative biography yet published on a woman about whom there has been much speculation and little known fact. This new volume was made possible through the discovery of hitherto unknown diaries and journals belonging to the founder of the American Red Cross and whose indomitable spirit marches through the pages of this scholarly work.

FALLING THROUGH SPACE by Richard Hillary is more than the personal story of an R. A. F. pilot who was shot down in the English channel during the great blitz. Mr. Hillary has given a vivid, completely compelling picture of the impact of war on the individual and has written a flaming record of the spirit and feeling of the youngsters who have been holding the front line against the Nazis.

'HEALTH FOR VICTORY' CLUB HAS MEETING

Name of Group Changed From "Health for Defense" Club; Vitamized Cooking Demonstrated By Mrs. Kiene.

MORE THAN 400 Mansfield women yesterday attended the second meeting of the nation's initial Health for Victory Club to watch Mrs. Julia Kiene, Westinghouse manager of home economics, explode the idea that proper cooking methods require a lot of water.

Purposely handicapping herself by using old, makeshift cooking utensils, the home economics expert prepared all kinds of vegetables to prove the point that "vitamized cooking" is a simple way to save the nutritive values of food.

Originally titled "Health for Defense," the club's name has been officially changed to Health for Victory in keeping with America's war effort, Mrs. Kiene announced.

Attending yesterday's meeting in the auditorium of the Westinghouse H building were wives, mothers and sisters of company employes as well as landladies who cook for these production soldiers. They received the latest menu and recipe guide book for the month of April which is based on a study of price and supply conditions in Mansfield retail stores.

After the group was shown an educational movie titled "V-Men" in honor of the research scientists who study the problems of nutrition, they were given an on-the-stage demonstration of vitamized cooking.

When the lecture and demonstration was ended, the audience was given a chance to inspect the cooked vegetables and the containers in which they were prepared.

A. members at Johnny Appleseed junior high school last evening, her subject was "How Do We Rate as Parents?" Those present for the open meeting of the P. T. She explained that adolescent reactions are largely influenced by parents' attitudes. Several rules were set forth as a guide to parents. Family council, inherent faith in the children's outcome, "growing" parents and tact in handling difficult situations were stressed. Voluntary obedience and self-reliance with care in choice of friends will make successful parents, Mrs. Hess explained.

Other tent members present were Mrs. Henrietta Sherman, Mrs. Alice Hunter, Mrs. Nellie McCracken and Mrs. Della Cochran.

Tuesday evening tent members presented a flag to the Girl Scout troop No. 21, at a meeting held at the Central Methodist church. Mrs. Pittenger made the presentation which was accepted by Mrs. P. C. Davis, Scout leader. Mrs. E. R. Masquelier is assistant Scout leader of the troop.

Mrs. Fair, president, gave a short talk. The girls than gave the pledge to the flag, the Scout law and sang God Bless America. One new member, Phyllis Dent, was welcomed into the troop. At the close of the meeting the group went to South park where they filled the feeding trays for the birds, a project of the troop. Tent members who attended the meeting were Mrs. Fair, Mrs. Lillian Robnolte, Mrs. Henrietta Sherman and Mrs. Della Cochran.

Marching to The Beauty Goal

By MME. QUI VIVE

Spring in the air. Smell it? Fair or stormy though the day may be, spring time is a comin'. Winter clothes looking rusty. Shop windows full of pretty duds that make your eyes blink and your head swim. How are you going to appear in them? Has lack of exercise during the winter months given you a bit of a spread? Does the skirt refuse to close because there's too much girl inside the skirt? Perhaps you have stoked up a bit on cream puffs and their insidious ilk and the bath room scales, recording more poundage, give you a dirty look.

Well, then, get out and walk. Pick up your feet and hoof a few miles each day. Don't tell teacher that you haven't the time. Even the busiest woman can find time for what she wants to do. A little stepping in the great outdoors will be good for a lot of things that may ail you. If you have worry thoughts in your mind, it will yank them out. If the nerves are curling up like the edges of bacon, it will make them stop acting like that. It will do more to vitalize a winter-worn complexion than all the cosmetics compounded by helpful chemists.

Keep on walking every day. It will be fun seeing spring a-busting. If the weather is cold and wet, that's no reason for staying indoors. Cold, moist air, combined with brisk exercise, does wonderful things to the circulatory system.

Sauntering and strolling are all right for window shopping, no good as exercise. To receive health and good looks benefits a woman must step briskly, she should move rhythmically, as a soldier marches when the band plays. Backbone stretched full length, chest high, breathing full and deep, head balanced, arms with an easy swing. That'll be a new excitement to women who lope or shuffle, their heads down between their shoulders.

Walking augments the waste and repair processes of the human system. It whets the appetite. If it is brisk, the surface of the body will perspire slightly, the flesh will be warm, bringing red roses to the cheeks. Few women get sufficient muscular activity. They need it as much as men need it. The man who never exercises is ashamed to confess it. Women should feel the same way about the matter.

Slow walking is more fatiguing than a brisk trot. Too much like standing still when the veins of the legs become fuller and general circulation more sluggish.

A long walk should be broken with short periods of rest. Clip off one mile the first day, increase the distance gradually until you can cover five miles comfortably.

Recipes to Save Sugar And Butter

By BETSY NEWMAN

I'm giving you a well-balanced diet for a day. Notice that I'm using substitutes for butter and sugar in recipes. These are economical, healthful, and help conserve. So far, I have been informed by the Home Economics bureau of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, we do not have to forego wheat flour as we did in the last war. That may come later, of course, and if so we'll meet it cheerfully.

Today's Menu.

Potato Soup.

4 cups diced potatoes
½ cup chopped onions
4 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups irradiated evaporated milk
1 tablespoon margarine.

Boil potatoes and onions in water to which salt has been added; cover and cook until potatoes are tender, about 20 minutes after they come to boil. Add milk and margarine. Heat before serving. A dash of finely chopped parsley, grated cheese or paprika is a nice garnish.

Crisp Waffles.

1¾ cups sifted flour
¼ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoon baking powder
2 egg yolks, beaten
1¼ cup milk
⅓ cup vegetable oil
2 egg whites

Sift together flour, cornstarch, salt and baking powder into mixing bowl. Combine beaten egg yolks, milk and cooking oil, add to dry ingredients, stirring only until batter is smooth. Beat egg whites stiff, fold into batter and bake on hot waffle iron.

Apple Turnovers.
Pastry.

2¾ cups flour
6 tablespoons cornstarch
¾ teaspoon salt
¾ cup vegetable oil
6 tablespoons water

Sift flour, cornstarch and salt together, stir in oil, then moisten with enough water to make dough hold together.

Roll out thin on lightly floured board; cut into 4-inch squares.

Filling.

3 apples
¼ cup light corn syrup
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Peel and cut apples in thin slices; mix together corn syrup, cinnamon; nutmeg. Lay slices of apples on one-half of each square of dough, sprinkle with syrup mixture, fold over other half of square to form triangle; press edges together with floured fork, prick top to allow escape of steam, and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Makes 8 turnovers.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

GUS CONSIDERED my question for several seconds before he answered me. He looked out the windows of the heavy, swaying car, and I knew he was appraising the thick underbrush along the trail.

"Yes, I think they could be hid all right," he said at last, "providing the brush around the old man's house is as thick as it is here."

"That, of course, we will have to wait to find out," I said, then Gus exclaimed:

"That car ahead has just dropped out of sight!"

Bill called back the explanation "Hold tight!" he said. "We're going to make a sharp turn."

Before us was a short, steep ascent, which looked as if no car could make it. But Joe sent our big armored car up as if it were a racer, then we dropped quite abruptly down the other slope, and turned into another road.

"This must be the detour you wanted," Gus said, and Bill called back again.

"The other car's ahead," he said. "This road curves around Thunder Mountain, and then comes back up it again from the other side."

"Thunder Mountain!" I repeated the words to myself, remembering their association with Prof. Walter Scott Diswell.

Sought Seclusion

When the eminent ancient language scholar had reached the age of retirement at his beloved university, he had created a whirlwind of speculation by dropping out of sight.

Several months later a reporter for a Connecticut newspaper, who knew Diswell by sight, discovered that the old man was building a retreat on Thunder Mountain, where he could have the quiet seclusion which was his dearest wish. Photographers, barred from the grounds, got what pictures they could from secret vantage points, but the results were unsatisfactory.

I had read those newspaper stories with interest, because of my former visits to the old savant with Jack in my brother-cousin's college days, and by memory always had retained the name of Thunder Mountain, and its approximate location. It therefore had been comparatively easy for me to plan this trip, which now was approaching its end under circumstances of which I had not dreamed when I began it.

Why were those gangsters—as Jim Watson had judged them—hunting for the Diswell home? This question beat disturbingly upon my brain, and the most plausible answer—that their visit was a desperate attempt to discover Jack Bickett's whereabouts—was most disquieting.

Thinks of Redfield

Another question tapped at my attention. Had Stephen Redfield outwitted my father, after all?

I shook myself back to reasoned thinking. It was almost beyond the bounds of possibility that my father's elaborate precautions should have been discovered. It was bad enough to know that gangsters were hunting the old professor, without feeling that I had been responsible for bringing them to his door.

The trail was descending now sharply, and Bill sent back another warning.

"Hold tight! Here's another turn and we're going back up the mountain. Another half mile and we're there."

Wants to Make Husband Over

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

"Dear Dr. Myers: My husband and I get on very well together except for the fact that we do not see eye to eye regarding the training of our children. We have a girl 11, a boy 9 and a baby 7 months old.

"The boy aged 9 seems to get on my husband's nerves continually and very little Phil does seems to be right. My husband seems to watch every thing Phil does and finds fault and scolds him at meal time if he spills anything. He seems to be at him more if we have people in, which makes me cross.

"Another thing that makes my husband cross is that Phil is forgetful and does not remember to clear up after doing some messy job in the cellar and when he tells Phil of this raises his voice in no sweet tone.

"As a child, my father used to raise his voice at me. I had a very loud laugh and my father used to 'scream at me. 'Stop that cackling!' I used to feel I positively hated him...

"My husband says Phil never does anything well, but I say if he hasn't the patience to teach him how does he expect him to learn? With our girl I have spent hours with her showing her how to sew and do a bit of cooking. Her father has a lot more patience with her. I feel after all Phil is his job. Phil always does as I ask him to. Sometimes I do have to speak more than once to him.

"My husband thinks parents can use whatever manners they like but that children cannot. If Phil ever checks on his father's manners, dad says, 'Parents are privileged to do as they like.'

"My husband is good and generous with his money and I just feel I would like to snap him out of this if possible. What is your advice?"

I agree with you on the changes that should be made in your husband toward Phil but not with your ways of trying to make him snap out of it. Husbands aren't made over in this fashion. All the advice you have given him is good but you should know that you are hardly the one to give it to him. As you advise and criticize him you suggest that he is inferior to you as a parent. This causes him to grow in the very ways you most dislike.

Clearly, too, it is son and mother against daughter and dad. Seeing in dad the things you hated in your father, you encourage Phil to complain to you about his father behind his back. Stiffen up and stand back of dad in disciplining Phil and quit defending Phil so much. Cultivate a closer bond with the daughter. In dad's absence play up his best to the children, never criticizing him then.

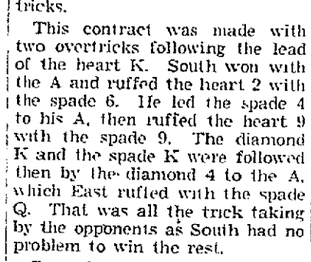
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

ASSET AND LIABILITY

A SINGLETON in your hand may be measured two ways when your partner gives you a choice between a No Trump and a suit contract. In the case of the No Trump it is somewhat of a liability. Though your partner's No Trump bid has indicated safe stopping of that suit, your shortage tends to increase the length of it in the opponents' hands. At a suit contract, the singleton is a definite asset as offering a place where you can use your trumps separately to take additional tricks.



(Dealer: East North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠

This contract was made with two overtricks following the lead of the heart K. South won with the A and ruffed the heart 2 with the spade 6. He led the spade 4 to his A, then ruffed the heart 9 with the spade 9. The diamond K and the spade K were followed then by the diamond 4 to the A, which East ruffed with the spade Q. That was all the trick taking by the opponents as South had no problem to win the rest.

Several pairs in the same duplicate reached 3-No Trumps. In one case, after South bid the 2-No Trumps on his second turn, North went to 3-No Trumps. In another, when North bid 3-Clubs after the 2-No Trumps on the second round, South went to 3-No Trumps. In still another, after North's second round bid of 3-Clubs and South's correct rebid of 3-Spades, North made a terrifically bad bid of 3-No Trumps. All of the No Trump games were beaten, by the heart K lead. South ran eight consecutive tricks, but then had to lose the lead, whereupon the defenders took the remainder in hearts.

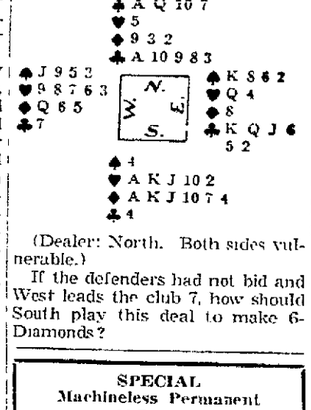
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

If the defenders had not bid and West leads the club 7, how should South play this deal to make 6-Diamonds?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, March 28.

While there may be much activity and enterprise on this day it is likely that the personal functions and interests will be uppermost, with prosaic and business objectives relegated to the background, although these are under favorable rule for constructive work if energy and practical efforts be turned in this direction. Friendship or some social influence might be of benefit here.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and eventful year, with much progress and fulfilled ambitions both in business and private life. The former is under good auguries for expansion and energetic exploits if application and industry be aggressively employed. The social or friendly aspect may be utilized for furthering objectives. The major attention may be centered, however, on domestic, social, affectional or other personal or intimate associations.

A child born on this day should be bold, keen, courageous, energetic and ambitious, with friendship, popularity, and good fellowship holding place in its plans.

Bride Wore Blue, But the Groom-- He Was Dazzling

CAMP GRANT, Ill.—(INS)—If a male society reporter is drafted into the army, he has his work all cut out and ready for him.

Here's an example, as carried by the Camp Grant post newspaper:

"The groom, buck private scion of a well-known Egg Harbor, Wis., family, chose the season's popular olive drab blouse and trousers of wool serge, with harmonizing sun tan shirt for his wedding.

"Setting off the straight lines of the blouse was a single row of bright brass buttons down the front, with matching individual buttons on each pocket and on each shoulder.

"His trousers were straight-cut without cuffs. Cotton sox of olive drab with harmonizing brown shoes and a contrasting black woolen serge tie completed his ensemble. In his left hip pocket he carried a white handkerchief."

P. S.—"The bride wore blue."

DEPOSIT FOUND IN WEST TEXAS

SWEETWATER, Tex.—(UP)—Mineral-rich West Texas is offering another raw material for national defense—celestite.

Celestite, also known as strontium, is used for flares. Formerly used in fireworks, the mineral burns with a brilliant red flame.

A survey made by the University of Texas reveals that a deposit of celestite runs east and west through Nolan county. The lode is from six iches to one foot thick and has been pronounced suitable for commercial exploitation.

Who Gave Whipping to Whom?

Did Miss Constance Davis, Lafayette, Ind., school teacher, strike 11-year-old Danny Leslie with a book when she caught him whispering, or was that just a little story Danny told his mother, Mrs. Virginia Leslie? At any rate, Danny's mother and father promptly paid a visit to Miss Davis' class and Mrs. Leslie proceeded to give the teacher a lashing with a scout belt while Mr. Leslie stood guard at the schoolroom door. The principals in the case are pictured at the courthouse in Lafayette where pupils of Miss Davis testified that she had not struck Danny. Miss Davis is seen (top photo) with her attorney, and in the lower photo Mrs. Leslie is pictured talking with son Danny during a court recess.

Texas is generally credited with being the birthplace of the cards game known as "rummy."

The average annual rainfall in the United States is about 29 inches.

MUST DOUBLE TO HOUSE WORKERS

VANCOUVER, Wash.—(UP)—Vancouver must double its present size within the next 90 days in order to accommodate 16,000 defense workers due here for employment in a new shipyard.

The city is making frantic arrangements for a federal housing program to construct 4,000 portable units, 2,000 permanent homes and barracks sufficient to accommodate 1,500 unmarried men.

Since Vancouver has only 700 vacant lots, most of the new housing project must be located outside the city limits.

RITES SATURDAY

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held Saturday in Attica for Mrs. Peter Haspeslagh, 83, former Bucyrus resident, who died at her home near Attica Wednesday. Mrs. Haspeslagh left Bucyrus 30 years ago. One son and one daughter survive.

Forests of pine and spruce cover more than half the area of Sweden.

Applications Open For Post of Zone Revenue Collector

Applications for the post of zone deputy collector, internal revenue service, will be accepted by the civil service commission, located in the Mansfield postoffice, until April 8.

Examinations for the post will be held in Mansfield, according to G. H. Hoover, Mansfield district secretary, and applicants admitted to the examination will receive admission cards stating the time and place.

Men between the ages of 18 and 53 are eligible to make application for the post which pays $1,800 a year salary subject to a deduction for retirement purposes.

Although the primary purpose of the examination is to establish a register for filling vacancies in the position of zone deputy collector, internal revenue service, the register may be used for filling vacancies in other positions requiring somewhat similar qualifications.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

An imaginary voyage and the story of a lost king have been added to the children's department of the Mansfield Public library. Both books have been read and re-read many times before but the new copies will be welcomed by many older boys and girls.

DAVY AND THE GOBLIN, by Charles Carryl—After Davy had read Alice's Adventure in Wonderland he went himself on a "believing voyage" with a goblin and met candy folk, fairies and hobgoblins. These adventures will be interesting especially to those children who want a long fairy tale. The story is attractively illustrated.

WHEN A COBBLER RULED THE KING, by Augusta Seaman—When Louis Charles was just a little boy his father, Louis XVI, was removed from the throne of France and Louis Charles was imprisoned in a tower. Jean Mettot was indebted to the prince from an earlier time so although he was only twelve he was eager to do whatever he could to release the prisoner. A clever plot was devised by a group of men and Jean helped to carry it out. There are many interesting adventures in this tale.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—When, almost cheek by jowl, in the "old army" you have been brought up or served with men who are now three-star or even four-star generals it is very hard to regard them with the awe with which the world regards them.

Gen Johnson

My early time in the army was one of slow but certain change from an older order left over from the Civil war. Nearly all the regular field officers were old Indian fighters. Promotion was painfully slow.

Some lieutenants were grandfathers, and a man hardly expected his captaincy before forty, except for a lucky few that got the little spurt in advancement due to the Spanish-American war.

The rest of us—and this included nearly every one of the army's big shots today—expected to serve 40 years and retire as majors and colonels if we were lucky.

But there were great forces moving under the surface toward tremendous change One of these was, of course, aviation.

Most of the great flying fields were named for my buddies—which means that they lost their lives in pioneering days of flying. The first man ever killed in any airplane accident—or even hurt, was a classmate of mine, Tom Selfridge

A handful of junior lieutenants attended the first American airplane meet at Tanforan, Cal. The pioneer flyers of the world were nearly all there. Most of the bunch who "went up" that day, (except myself) joined the air department of the signal corps and because they gave their lives, have air-fields named for them today—Love, Kelley, Crissy, McChord, etc.

Active generals like MacArthur (who was a classmate of mine) or like McNair, Wainwright and Stilwell (who were contemporary schoolmates at West Point) were comrades in the army afterward.

Recalling them to memory as awkward, gangling kids, frequently under the terrible embarrassment of the old West Point hazing system, it is difficult to realize that they have developed into great world-figures with terrific responsibilities for the fate and future of the nation in their hands.

And yet, I can remember quite clearly that there were two things which, without a single exception, they had in common—rather rare things in those days of the army.

Let's call them extreme simplicity and sympathy for the other fellow's position and point of view—especially if the "other fellow" was of lower rank as an officer or was an enlisted man.

There was—and there still is—no brass-hat "side" among these men—no strutting insistence on their importance, not because of anything they have done, but because they are "officers and gentlemen by act of congress."

This outstanding quality plus the fact that they were happy to be soldiers and had faith that hard work and effort with every job well done would some day win recognition, even if that day were as distant as doom, are the distinguishing marks of every single one of these men.

With no exceptions, soldiers love them. Every year, or on every change of commanders throughout long years, officers have submitted to Washington "efficiency" reports on the conduct of their work. It doesn't take many bad or indifferent reports to kill a career.

A single spiteful or biased commander may do a lot of harm, but if the average from all kinds of authorities is very high you may be pretty sure the subject is an unusual product.

With the exception of MacArthur, none of these men is the flaming type of natural genius. Every last one of them, however, is a simple man's he-man who knows and loves his profession Every one is a national asset.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

The Legends of Broadway.

ALMOST everyone dances on Broadway. The chorus girls kick their pretty legs through miles of ruffles in the musical shows, and the horseplayers, rhumba in the Latin basements, and the pickaninnies shuffle for pennies on the sidewalks of Times Square But there is one fellow who dances, who is like a bad-tempered movie matador and like a lightweight boxer and like a high wire walker and like a gypsy; and he is a legend on the Street He is Tony DeMarco, who dances so lightly, that the asphalt of Broadway hardly touches his feet.

Kilgallen

A few years ago the DeMarcos were booked for a concert at the Hollywood bowl.

Renee was talking to him again. They danced before 27,000 people in the bowl that night, and afterwards they were asked to meet the bowl's premiere ballerina, a little Mormon girl from Roosevelt, Utah. Tony begged off—he was too tired. Renee did the honors.

The ballerina was Sally Craven, and with her was her roommate, Lorraine Day, who was trying to crash pictures.

First of the DeMarco partners was Mabel Hooper; that was in his kid days Then came Mabel Scott, his first wife. She became ill, and Tony engaged a Pavlowa ballerina to replace her: Helen Kroner, who was so good that Tony refused to put his wife back in the act. That, naturally, led to a divorce.

In 1924 came Maxine Arnold. (But dance partners mustn't ever get plump) The year 1927 saw Albertina Vitak (But only Tony is allowed to be temperamental in the DeMarco act.) In 1928 came Patricia Bowman. (She was ambitious) Arline Langen was fine in 1929, but in 1930 came love and Renee Le Blanc. She was the only Renee, and with her to dance with, Tony whirled up the rainbow to the pot of gold.

It was Emil Coleman who "sold" them to the Plaza hotel. Take the automobiles out of the lobby, he advised—no one's buying them anyhow. Let Joseph Urban map out a room. My orchestra and that sensational dance team, the DeMarcos. . . . Who? . . . Well, Mr. Coleman, if you say they're sensational.

They were sensational, if you call a sum like $30,000 a week sensational, and the Plaza forgot about red ink and automobiles in the lobby.

And the DeMarcos used to dance every season at the Plaza, until one afternoon when Renee had friends in for cocktails in the two-room suite the hotel gave them gratis. Tony wanted to sleep, so he called the desk, explained the situation and was given a small room for the afternoon He got a bill for it the next day. Tony got mad, tore the bill in half and quit.

That's Tony.

SUBMITS BILL TO CONTROL WAGES IN WAR WORK

Toland Introduces Measure to Set Up 48-Hour Week, Check Company Books.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A sweeping substitute for the Smith labor-profits bill, calling for strict governmental control of salaries and bonuses paid to officials of war industries, was submitted to the house naval affairs committee today by its counsel, Edmund M. Toland

The proposal came as the committee reconvened for further consideration of war profits and labor, calling for testimony of representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers and of Admiral Emory S Land, chairman of the maritime commission.

While the Toland substitute retains the proposed 6 per cent profit limitation, the labor phases of the legislation are far less drastic than the original measure introduced by Rep. Smith (D., Va.) which would suspend the 40-hour work week, abolish overtime pay, and outlaw the closed shop.

Toland's measure would extend the work week to 48 hours, permitting payment of time and a half for work in excess of that, and instead of abrogating existing closed shops it would forbid establishment of new ones during the war

Toland, who has submitted to the committee data on what he termed "exorbitant" salaries and bonuses paid company officials, proposed in his measure that the treasury be given authority to examine company records and disallow payment of compensation which it found to be excessive

Under terms of the bill a company engaged in war business would be required to make an accounting every two years and pay to the treasury everything it had earned in excess of 6 per cent above the cost of production.

The treasury, however, in conjunction with the army or navy, would be empowered to examine the company books and if it deemed payment of salaries or bonuses to be excessive, could refuse to allow them as part of the cost of production in computing the amount of money to be paid back to the government.

Companies would be protected by a provision permitting them to go to court if they felt the treasury was asking too much.

ASK FIRING OF SLOW-DOWNERS

War Labor Board Officials Act in Probe of ALCOA Production Drop.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND—Four union shop stewards, responsible for a slowdown which resulted in a 30 per cent drop in war production at the Cleveland plant of the Aluminum Company of America, were recommended discharged today by the war labor board.

The slow-down, which arose from a wage dispute between members of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (CIO) and the company, forced the laying-off of several hundred workers in the foundry division and the delay of shipments to war plants.

Officials of the union announced in a formal statement that the decision of William E. Baldwin, investigator for the WLB was the result of an investigation requested by the union and that it has the full support of the MMSWU

Upon dismissal of the four men who instigated the slow-down the union and the company will negotiate their grievances, a spokesman for the WLB said.

HARD BARGAIN

That's How Director Describes Lease of Ohio Fairground.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—State Agriculture Director John T. Brown said today the federal government "drove a hard bargain" when it obtained use of the state fairground until one year after the war's end for $1.

The lease specifies the government must maintain the grounds during the occupation of army air corps supply units and must return them to the state at the termination of the lease in the same condition under which they were acquired.

FAST ON TURNS, U. S. PLANES ARE CALLED CHAMPIONS OF DESERT

(By Associated Press)

WITH THE RAF IN LIBYA—Slower on the straightaway but faster on the turns, the American-built Kittyhawk is hailed as the champion of the desert air over the German pride, the Messerschmitt 109F.

The American plane simply can "get around more neatly" than the German plane, its chief adversary here, which is 30 to 40 miles faster on the straightaway, Squadron Leader Clyver "Killer" Caldwell Australian ace, explains

The Messerschmitt is "all power and all speed—a big engine with little wings and a fuselage tacked onto it," outmaneuvered by the Kittyhawk's "bigger wing area and greater control surface," he said.

The matter of "know-how" is an important factor because, Caldwell admitted, the enemy "above a certin altitude has got it all his own way"

"He knows that, so he waits around up there, sometimes as high as 30,000 feet," he said.

"We know it, so we wait around down below That means he usually attacks first

"He comes diving down at you. You have to keep turning, watching him carefully, always facing him and not letting him get on your tail. If you're careful, you can do this.

"Then as he gets near you shoot upward and go at him headon"

Caldwell, 30, has 19 and one half enemy planes to his credit—the half representing his share of a plane which he and another pilot shot down cooperatively.

He was wounded once and has won the distinguished flying cross with bar for various feats, including the felling of five Junkers bombers in a single day

Somewhere in Mansfield there may be someone who can claim a $5,000 estate in Florida if he can produce evidence he is an heir of the former owner. Probate court officials today had received a request from George A. Deisman, of Bedford, Ohio, for information concerning the heirs of the late William P. Weiant, said to have been a former resident of Mansfield. Deisman said he learned recently in Florida that the estate, including a modern home and an orange grove, will be taken over by the state of Florida unless it is claimed soon. Probate records listed no one born in Richland county with the name Weiant who could have died recently in Florida.

Interviewed yesterday by a newspaper reporter in Chicago on an educator's most important role in wartime, Supt. W. L Miller of Mansfield schools said it is "to establish and interpret a practical working morale among the young people in school and the people in the community. Unless the morale you establish is practical and will work, it is not at all effective and will never produce results." A small picture of Miller appeared with the brief interview which was obtained on the street. The superintendent and Principal Glenn G. Rohleder of Senior high school are attending the annual meeting of the Northcentral Association of Colleges and High Schools.

FOUND GUILTY

Strikers Convicted of Plot to Dynamite Bridge.

PEORIA, Ill.—(AP)—Two former employes of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad and a railroad brotherhood press agent were convicted by a federal court jury yesterday of contempt of court by conspiring to dynamite a railroad bridge during a strike.

Judge J. Leroy Adair deferred sentence until after motions for a new trial, but he denied a motion to dismiss the case on grounds of insufficient evidence. The jury found the dynamite plot violated a temporary injunction enjoining strikers from violence. The three-month-long strike ended Sunday when the federal government took over operation of the road.

Those convicted were Paul Brokaw, Cleveland, press agent for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Delmar G. Newdigate, former road switchman and chairman of the Peoria local, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; and H. J. Dilley, of St. Louis, a former T. P. & M. fireman.

OFFICIALS ARREST 200 FOE AGENTS

4 High-Powered Secret Radio Stations Seized; Several Hungarians Nabbed.

(By Associated Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO—Brazilian officials moved swiftly today to stamp out the last traces of a gigantic Nazi spy ring centering in Rio De Janeiro after arresting 200 alleged secret agents and seizing four high-powered clandestine radio stations.

More arrests were promised as police pressed a sweeping investigation into the operations of a farflung organization they said had been relaying military information to Berlin as a world clearing house for the German espionage system.

"The organization is not yet eradicated," said one source, "but it is hoped that this initial blow will lead to a cleanup of South American leaks to Berlin."

Among the 200 already under arrest, police said, were a German admiral and a number of Nazi government and army officials who allegedly held key espionage positions

Also arrested were several Hungarians police reported had been operating small radio transmitters.

Police Chief Filinto Muller declared the arrests were the result of a secret investigation begun shortly after the outbreak of the war in September. 1939.

One of the four powerful radio stations seized was located in fashionable Le Blon suburb in a private residence occupied by Niels Cristiensen, described officially as "one of the most famous German radio technicians."

Police said Cristiensen, in custody, was in daily communication with Berlin by means of his short wave transmitter, which had a range of 9,000 miles.

In Cristiensen's possession police said they found 11 declared reports on vessels in Rio De Janeiro harbor.

It was said daily reports had been radioed to Berlin including information on movements of North American and British shipping as well as other vital military data.

In addition to the large radio transmitters, police said they seized "an infinity" of other wireless equipment, quantities of material for micro-photography and elaborate chemical laboratories.

Bomb Thrown at Collaborationist Fails to Explode

LONDON —(INS)— A bomb was thrown at Marcel Deat, French political leader, while he was addressing a meeting in Paris last night, but it failed to explode and Deat was uninjured, the German radio quoted DNB as disclosing today in a broadcast picked up in London.

The bomb "bounced off Deat's waistcoat and dropped to the floor," DNB said. According to the Nazi agency, he picked up the missile, extinguished the fuse, handed the bomb to a policeman and continued his speech.

Deat, France's leading collaborationist who led an anti-Bolshevik legion to Germany to fight side by side with the Nazis against Russia, has been an assassin's target before. He was wounded at Versailles some months ago when a young Frechman fired at him and at Pierre Laval during a review of French Legionnaires being sent to service in Russia.

Formerly a newspaper editor, Deat has long been Laval's press liaison man.

REDDY KILOWATT SAYS

BOYS and GIRLS
HERE'S A TIP ABOUT
FLYING KITES

- This is certainly swell weather for flying kites—lot's of wind and everything. But here's a little tip I want to pass along to you so you won't spoil your fun.
- Never fly kites near electric lines. You know that some kite strings are made of fine wire, so if your kite string happened to come into contact with the electric wire you might be injured. Even a damp cotton string is a conductor of electricity.
- Keep away from houses, trees, and far from streets and roads. You know you can't watch your kite and traffic, too.
- If your kite darts from side to side, pull it down and add more tail. Keep a steady pull on the string at all times. If the kite begins to fall, pull in quickly.
- Don't climb trees to rescue your kite unless you are positive that the limbs are strong enough to support your weight.
- And finally, NEVER CLIMB ELECTRIC LIGHT OR TELEPHONE POLES if your kite becomes entangled in wires. I certainly do not want any of my little friends to be injured while playing. And never try to knock it down with sticks or stones—you'll ruin the kite anyway. In case of emergency be sure to call me.

Your friend,
REDDY KILOWATT.

Island Romance.

"Bahama Passage," a West Indies romance co-starring Madeleine Carroll and Stirling Hayden, opens Saturday at the Ohio. Filmed in technicolor that catches all the tropical beauty of a salt-producing island in the West Indies the picture presents Miss Carroll as a worldly-wise young woman who finds her match in the naive owner of the island played by Hayden. As the daughter of the new overseer of the island the girl sets out to win the islander despite his opposition. Flora Robson and Cecil Kellaway are in the cast.

Horror Bill.

Spine-chilling action is presented in the Madison's double-horror bill opening Saturday. "The Mad Doctor of Market Street," a South Seas drama featuring Lionell Atwill, Una Merkel and Nat Pendleton will share the program with "The Wolf Man," in which young Lon Chaney outdoes previous horror characterizations on the screen. In the first picture Atwill portrays a shipwrecked doctor obsessed with the idea that he can bring people back to life. "The Wolf Man," is based on the "werewolf" legend of the European countryside.

Streamlined Romance.

"Appointment For Love," co-starring Charles Boyer and Margaret Sullavan, opens Saturday at the Park. Miss Sullavan appears as a feminine careerist, a physician, who handles a career with one hand and a successful playwright husband with the other. Boyer has the part of the husband who doesn't have the knack of filling a dual role like his wife. Reginald Denny, Eugene Pallette and Ruth Terry are in the cast. Gene Autry's "Cowboy's Serenade," is the second attraction.

Musical Motif.

"Blues In the Night," starring Priscilla Lane, is the Ritz attraction. Richard Whorf of the New York stage makes his debut in the picture that concerns a band of wandering musicians. Fred Scott is featured in "Riding the Trail," the co-attraction.

Enemy Activity.

Fifth column activities in an army hostess hall are pictured in "Criminals Within," a murder-mystery opening Saturday at the Majestic with Eric Linden and Ann Doran in the leading roles. A band of international highjackers murder a government chemist and later the blame for a second murder falls on the chemist's brother. A new colored comedy team, Dudley Dickerson and Bernice Pilot, make their film debut in the picture after Dickerson's extended engagements with Duke Ellington's band. Cesar Romero is featured in the second picture, "Lucky Cisco Kid."

Actress to Wed Writer

Wedding of Virginia Pine, screen actress, and Quentin Reynolds, the well-known war correspondent and author, is to take place soon. Wendell Willkie will be best man at the nuptials. Miss Pine and Reynolds are shown dining in New York.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

"If any of the boys back home think this Gene Tunney naval physical-ed training program is play, they should follow us around for a day."

That's the sum and substance, if not the exact words, of Mansfielder Ed Chatlain's conclusions on the subject after four weeks of training, as drawn in a letter to his family.

The conclusion was reached after a 12-mile march in the rain, and was backed up by a program of up-at-5 a. m. and to-bed-at-9 p. m., and every day crowded with work.

However, Ed's letters show he's not only happy in his new billet, but having the time of his life, surrounded at Norfolk, Va., by dozens of All-America football stars, major league baseball satellites, top names of the boxing world, and a flock of other national sport page figures.

An all-around athletic star himself at Mansfield high school and Wittenberg college, Chatlain is accustomed to the dressing room aroma of sweat and linament and shower steam. But it's a rarefied atmosphere he's living in now, where the sweat pours off some of the greatest bodies in sport.

* * *

"I never dreamed last summer when I paid to watch him play at Cleveland, that I'd be playing ball inside a year with Bob Feller," declares Ed.

Chatlain says Feller is just as hard-working and conscientious as Cleveland sport pages always portrayed him, and that there's nothing a bit high-hat about the strikeout king from Iowa.

Sam Chapman, star outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, is another ball player cavorting about the Norfolk diamond, while minor league stars in camp are too numerous to mention.

When he isn't drilling or playing ball, Chatlain gets to talk over things in the old home town with Mansfielder Huber McCuen, ex-Ashland college cager.

More news from the armed forces:

Handsome Harry Siegbert, first baseman of the Mansfield Braves, writes a rather plaintive letter from Camp Robinson, Arkansas, saying he has a lot of friends in Mansfield, and that he'd like a few letters from them.

Okay, Mansfield Braves fans, get busy. Here's the address:

Private Harry Siegbert,
Co. C. 68th Bn., 14th Reg.,
2nd Platoon,
Camp Robinson, Arkansas.

Siegbert passes along the word that Tiny Tim Mangan, Braves catcher, is in San Francisco at Setterman's General hospital in the Medical corps.

"So far, have earned a sharpshooter's rating in rifle, qualified in bayoneting, hand grenade throwing, automatic rifle and machine gun," Siegbert writes. "The army isn't so bad after you get used to it."

Add things Mansfielders do out of town:

Dick Swartzel, Ohio U. freshman and vice president of his class, won the 155-pound amateur boxing championship of the Athens school Wednesday night. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carey Swartzel, Rowland avenue.

And Paul Keltner, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Keltner, 314 Prescott street, is counted on as a regular Capital university gridder next fall, according to word from Columbus where the Lutherans are now going through their spring grid drills.

THIRTY REPORT FOR TRACK AT BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS—More than 30 boys have reported this week for the first of the out of doors workouts called by track coach, Eldon Armbrust.

The first meet, scheduled for April 10 with Mansfield Reserves has been cancelled due to the fact that Mansfield will not sponsor a reserve team this year.

Capacity Crowds Seen For State Cage Meet

Financial Report on Regional Tourneys Declared Disappointing

By JAMES EMERSON

KENT—(UP)—A long-held notion that Ohio's schoolboy basketball strength and interest reaches greatest intensity in northeastern Ohio will be tested tomorrow.

Two of the four crack hardwood machines in the state Class A semi-finals tomorrow afternoon and evening are from Akron and Canton. Not only will Akron North and Canton Lehman have a chance to display superiority over Toledo Central Catholic and Xenia Central but the northeastern fans get an opportunity to show support for the first Class A finals held outside Columbus since the meet was established 20 years ago.

Local tourney officials confidently predict two capacity crowds of 5,500 in the Kent State university gymnasium and Ohio High School Athletic association heads hope they are right.

Money isn't the chief consideration in arranging these tournaments but it could be termed a big "influencing factor." One important reason the semi-finals were awarded to Kent was the theory that this sector is the basketball hot-bed of Ohio from the standpoint of interest and attendance.

Reports on cash receipts at the Class A regional and the state Class B finals last week have been disappointing. The figures are still incomplete but the gross will be less than $12,000. Two full houses tomorrow at 75 cents a customer will net around $8,000 which would more than make up for any early disappointments. The all-time record for the combined Class A and B tourney in Columbus was $18,106 grossed at the gate last year.

Attendance at tomorrow's season climax probably will influence school authorities in planning their athletic programs for next year.

Already many schools are restricting baseball, track and other minor sports which derive at least part of their support from football and basketball receipts. Right in this neighborhood, the Metropolitan High School league this week called off its baseball schedule for this spring.

H. R. Townsend, OHSAA commissioner, said he is opposed to any curtailment of high school sports in the war emergency.

He will expound this view to the meeting of the association control board here tonight. The board may adopt a resolution urging member schools to maintain their programs at their present levels.

The subject of tire rationing as it affects school buses hauling athletic teams, another question raised by war, will come before the board.

The New York High School Athletic association recently received a ruling from federal authorities that school buses "used primarily, meaning 75 per cent or more of the time, for transportation from home to places of instructions are entitled to tires even though partly used for transportation of athletic teams."

When Townsend brought this ruling to the attention of Ohio rationing officials, he was told they still had no authority to modify their previous ruling that school buses cannot transport anybody except pupils to and from school if they wish to stay eligible for new tires.

The control board likely will send a resolution to Washington authorities asking a ruling for Ohio like the one given New York. Townsend said few schools use their buses even 10 per cent of the time for other than to-and-from-classes transportation.

Reports from the regional Class A playoffs last week-end showed receipts of $1,193 at Dennison, $2,183 at Dayton and $983 at Findlay. Youngstown has not been heard from officially but Townsend said attendance there was "good." The Class B meet took in between $5,000 and $5,500.

The four Class A finalists were in town today to work out on the Kent floor. For the folks who like "paper" favorites, North rates to beat Toledo Central and Xenia to conquer Canton Lehman in the afternoon tilts at 2 and 3:15 p. m.

However, as anyone familiar with past tourney history knows, there "jest ain't any favorites" when these schoolboy battlers advance as far as the semi-finals. Anything may happen and no one except the fanatics should be surprised if Toledo Central and Lehman, both roaring along on fine tourney records, meet for the title at 8:15 p. m.

Toledo's fortunes took an upturn today with announcement that Frank Gilhooley, its main cog during the regular season who missed the regional action because of illness, will be back in the lineup tomorrow.

Dodds Proves Bit Impatient

Can't Wait For Other Guy To Set Pace.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Neither Leslie MacMitchell nor a mechanical rabbit will be available tonight, so it will be up to Earl Mitchell of Indiana and James Rafferty of Fordham to see whether Gil Dodds can follow his old coach's advice on the question of a fast start versus shadow-trampling.

The occasion is the mile run in the Knights of Columbus track meet.

The advice came yesterday from Lloyd Hahn, the Nebraskan who tutored Dodds in high school, and coached him by mail when Gil was an undergraduate at Ashland (O.) college. In the days before he became a Divinity student and took up running for the Boston A. A.

* * *

Hahn said the way to run distances is to save up for the finish, and let someone else set the pace. He even advocated a mechanical dummy, similar to the rabbit used at dog tracks, to set the pace and allow everyone on the track to relax until the finish.

* * *

Sure, said Dodds when he heard about it, "That's correct, but what are you going to do when no one wants to go out and set a fast enough pace?"

MacMitchell might have been available tonight, as he was entered for the mile, but his coach withdrew him because tonight's date was too close to Wednesday night's naval relief meet in New York.

That was the night MacMitchell beat Dodds, making him one up in the three times they have met in the mile.

It is only since he has been back east that Dodds has been using a fast start, with which he snapped in the National A. A. U. meet MacMitchell's string of 19 victories.

The absence of MacMitchell probably means only that the customers' eyes will turn to other events.

The great quartet of runners from Seton Hall college, for example, is riding such a groove that it's getting into the record-cracking habit. Three weeks ago the quartet did 7.39.8, nearly two seconds better than the former mark made by a Georgetown quartet 17 years ago, and Wednesday at New York lowered it to 7.33.9.

Greg Rice, who does the two-mile run so well that he has won 47 consecutive times, is competing against Jim Rafferty, Joe McCluskey, Fred Wilt of Indiana U. and Duane Zemper of Michigan Normal.

There are 16 regular events, plus others for high school runners.

Seven of tonight's performers won places last night on the all-American track team selected by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic Union. These included Chuck Beetham, formerly of Ohio State, who will appear in the 600-yard run.

Gross Rolls High In Humphryes Loop

Gross led the Humphryes kegling league last night at Colony alleys with a 501 total on games of 180-178-143. His 180 was high game for the league.

HAS INSPIRATION

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Nick Marino had bowled for 13 years but never in the presence of his wife. She turned out last night for the first time—and Nick rolled his first perfect 300 game.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK — Wide World— Next big benefit show after tonight likely will be the navy relief card in Washington—and part of the relief probably will be to relieve Freddie Cochrane of his welterweight title . . . Called in to arrange a card Mike Jacobs' first suggestion was that the navy should give Cochrane the leave he claims is necessary to get in shape for a title fight against Ray Robinson . . . The M. P who has been guarding Joe Louis' dressing room down at Fort Dix is an old-time rassler, known professionally as "the Dark Angel" and Dynamite Blackman" . . . When Joe started training for tonight's fuss, Eddie Blunt didn't have much trouble spearing him with a left. Now Eddie has trouble touching him with either hand.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Frank Graham, New York Sun: "Prize fighting, as Jimmy Johnston so frequently has remarked, is a very funny business, if he never had done so before, Jimmy proved it when he put Abe Simon into a ring to fight Joe Louis for the heavyweight championship of the world and he is going to prove it again when he steers Abe up the steps to fight Louis for the second time."

SPORTPOURRI

Stopping at Augusta on his way to Pinehurst to check up on arrangements for the masters' golf tournament, Freddie Corcoran of the P. G. A. heard that the Japanese diplomatic corps had almost moved in there from White Surphur Springs . . . "I guess they objected to the American plan," Freddie commented . . . After Boot and Spur gave Some Chance a licking at Agua Caliente a couple of weeks ago, owner E. C. A. Berger turned down an offer of $25,000 for the hoss. He said he'd rather win the Derby.

HOOP-LA

Ohioans wonder how come Indiana claims to be such a great state for high school basketball. The Hoosiers have fewer than 80¢ scholastic teams while 1,154 started in the Ohio State tournament.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Noting that two guys who pitched for the Red Sox against Detroit the other day were Hash and Brown, and that Trout started for the Tigers, James E. Doyle of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says that all were warmed up well so they had no trouble finding the dish.

Coast Stars Lead Doubles

Los Angeles Pair Set ABC Mark of 1358.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A proposal to increase the authority of the American Bowling Congress over its 1287 local associations was taken up today.

Submitted by E. H. Baumgarten of Milwaukee, ABC secretary, the plan would permit the national organization to investigate the activities of any local bowling official upon complaint of a member of a local association.

On the tournament alleys yesterday Walter Rosnick and Harry Redtke of Los Angeles grabbed the doubles leadership with 1358. Rosnick contributed 745.

The Dayton, O., Pepsi-Colas rolled 2988 for fourth place in the team standings, while Hanna Grill of Cleveland took fifth wth 2966.

John Supple of Los Angeles annexed fifth in the singles with 703.

FLEMING HOMERS WITH BASES LOADED

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(INS)—Les Fleming, husky rookie first baseman, was the toast of the Cleveland camp today, after his homer with the bases loaded against the Detroit Tigers yesterday, gave the Tribe a 4 to 0 victory. This one man batting attack was supported by fine pitching by Joe Heving and Rookie Steve Gromek, who between them limited the Tigers to four hits.

Cincy Reds Buy Walker

Indian Holdout Goes To National League.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — So the Cincinnati Reds still are trying to stop left field drives with dollar bills.

That is the local reaction to the Tampa, Fla., training camp announcement of the purchase of holdout Gerry Walker from the Cleveland Indians. The price is supposed to be $20,000, which increases almost to $300,000 the cumulative four-year investment in the search for a hitting left fielder.

Walker, who preferred jerking sodas in his swank Orlando, Fla., drug store to taking a $5,000 cut from the Indians, may be the answer. If so, he will be a novelty in a field which has trembled under men like Vince DiMaggio, Morrie Arnovich, Johnny Rizzo, Ernie Koy, Jimmy Ripple, Wallie Berger and sundry others.

These gentlemen all came with good reputations, as does Walker. But some became strikeout kings. Some suddenly couldn't follow the trajectory of a pop fly. Almost all were expensive.

So Gerald at 33 is coming to a jinxed spot, and if ever the Reds needed a jinx-breaker it's now. They batted seventh in the National league last year and finished in third place only because of their incomparable pitchers and tight defense.

Walker himself seems to think he can help.

* * *

"I'm in good shape this year and I'll play my head off," he said after coming to telephone terms with General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Reds. (The reported honorarium is $11,000 or a little less than he got from Cleveland in 1941.) "I'm tickled to death to be with another club. There's too much front office at Cleveland."

Simon Battles Louis Tonight

Army Relief Fund's Real Winner of Bout.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Buck Private Joe Louis and bridegroom Abe Simon try to tear each other apart tonight for the benefit of the folks the soldier boys left behind.

Promptly at 10 p. m. (EWT), the dark destroyer and the huge, happy giant from Long Island go to work in Madison Square Garden's bunting bedecked ring. They're down for a 15-round scuffle for Joe's heavyweight championship. But even Abe's best friends tell him he's a cinch to become just another victim of the bomber before the Derby route runs its course.

Despite the top-sided chances of Joe's 21st successful defense of his crown in his all-time record run as champ, the real winner this time will be army emergency relief, the fund recently set up to care for the needy families of soldiers in action.

Exactly 11 weeks ago, Joe bowled Buddy Baer over in three minutes and the Navy Relief society profited by $89,000 from a gate of $189,000. This time, the best semi-official estimates are that the boys and girls may get a slightly longer run for their money—say four or five rounds—and the army will get between $50,000 and $60,000 from a gross of $125,000 to $150,000.

This total will be contributed by an expected crowd of 16,000 of the faithful who offer loud testimony to the drawing power of the greatest sports figure of this decade. For the second time in less than three months, he puts his million-dollar stock in trade—his championship—on the line for exactly nothing. All of his 40 per cent end of the purse, less only training expenses, will got to the fund. So will Mike Jacobs' promotional profits, a portion of Simon's 15 per cent cut of the net gate and a half of Madison Square Garden's take.

In Simon, the bomber meets a 253-pounder with a big, snappy left hand. A fighting heart just as large and an ability to absorb punishment that is startling to see. At the same time, however, virtually on one can see how Able the Ample can get out of the way of Joe's big guns once target practice starts—and Louis is out to start early tonight.

A year ago this month, Abe lasted 13 rounds with Louis. Now he says he's in better condition and faster. It might interest him to know Joe is, too.

WHISTLE TOOTER KNOWS ALL ANSWERS

BARTLESVILLE, Okla.—(AP)—Paul McCoy, refereeing a county tournament basketball game, was asked if he minded the booing that followed some of his decisions.

"Not at all," he replied, "I learned a long time ago in summer baseball that the wire fence back of the plate is put there to protect the umpire, not the fans."

WINS TITLE AGAIN

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal.—(INS)—It's pretty hard to beat Marion Hollins on the Pebble Beach golf course, especially in the annual women's championships. Miss Hollins organized the tournament 20 years ago and then proceeded to win it. Yesterday she grabbed the title again by defeating Mrs. Frederick Sheldon, Carmel, 9 and 8.

Ben Hogan Takes Tourney Purse

PINEHURST, N. C.—(INS)—Par-busting Ben Hogan, leading money earner of the fairways, today pocketed another first place purse of $1,000 after winning the 40th annual North-South open golf tournament with a record 72-hole score of 271.

The mighty little Irishman who was born in Dublin, Tex., now registering from Hershey, Pa., fashioned his record-breaking score for the Pinehurst layout wth sub-par cards of 67 in the morning session and 69 in the afternoon round in the final day of the historic tourney. His 271 aggregate, which was 17 blows under par, nipped six strokes off the old 277 record which he established in winning the 1940 renewal.

Dealdocked for third place in the 281 bracket were Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, and Byron Nelson, of Toledo, Ohio. National Open Champion Craig Wood, of Mamoranock, N. Y., posted a 283 total to finish in a tie with Les Kennedy of Lynn, Mass.

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need

MARKET LISTS NEW HIGH AND LOW RECORDS

Chrysler Edges to New Peak But American Telephone Breaks Bottom Mark.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A few new year's highs as well as lows befoggled the direction of today's stock market.

Chrysler edged into new high ground for 1942 but General Motors failed to step out in front. American Telephone again was a laggard, breaking through its bottom mark since 1938.

Modest early support was accorded Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, Texas Co., Du Pont, Kennecott, Cerro De Pasco, American Smelting, Boeing and Sears Roebuck.

Inclined to back away were Allied Chemical, Standard Oil (N. J.), and J. C. Penney.

The war news still lacked much speculative or investment inspiration and domestic problems were sufficiently numerous to restrain many potential bidders.

Holders of merchandising shares found some satisfaction in the survey of Dun & Bradstreet estimating this week's retail spending throughout the nation hit a new high since the Christmas rush.

Confirmation of the retail bulge was seen in the federal reserve summary placing department store sales in the United States in the week ended March 21 at 26 per cent above the comparable period a year ago.

CITY ROCKED

Coast Guard Probes Explosion Off Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. —(U.P.)—The coast guard today investigated a terrific explosion at sea which shook this resort, rattling windows along the beachfront.

The blast, followed by a huge red glare which lighted up a large section of the sky, brought thousands of spectators to the boardwalk shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday.

Informed Balkan sources reported that all available German troops in southeast Europe were massing in Bulgaria and Greece, including three divisions shifted from Yugoslavia to the Turkish frontier.

On the North African front, a lull enforced by fierce sandstorms was broken as British desert patrols advanced 40 miles to inflict casualties on Axis troops at Halegh El Eleba.

On the Soviet front, Russia's Red armies reported fresh gains in the battle for final victory in 1942.

A British dispatch said the Germans were fortifying Kiev and blasting ice of the Dnieper river at that Nazi-occupied capital of the Ukraine—this despite the fact that Red army spearheads were still about 200 miles away when last reported. Guerrilla bands were said to be active about the city.

Russians said Red army men had slain hundreds of Germans to recapture another central front community; killed 950 in other actions; won four more districts (counties) of Smolensk province to achieve full occupation of 16; and driven into the approaches of a large southwestern front city through a battle in which eight German tanks were destroyed and three captured.

The southwestern city was not identified, but the action might have taken place at Kharkov, Orel or Taganrog.

Stockholm dispatches said the Russians had pierced German field fortifications about Gzhatsk —"some of the strongest" ever erected—in their long campaign against that base 100 miles west of Moscow.

From Malta, British Mediterranean stronghold which has an unenviable reputation as the most bombed island in the world, came a report that the Axis had lost at least 50 planes and spent tons of explosives since March 1 in a vain attempt to knock it out of the war.

STATE REJECTS 11 DRAFTEES

Boards Here Informed of Those Returned From 201 Men Sent From County.

Board clerks pointed out that most of the rejected men had given up their jobs at home in preparation for going into the army and now must find work until their physical defects are corrected to make them acceptable by the army.

The procedure is likely to be repeated often under the new plan of induction which goes into operation Monday in all sections of the state. Registrants then will be inducted into the army immediately after they pass their physical tests at the induction station. They must be prepared when they leave home for their second examination to go into the army. "Screening" tests will be continued at the Mansfield Armory where men obviously unfit for army service will be sent home.

In cases where it is impossible for the registrant to clean up his business matters at home in time for his scheduled induction, he may be granted a 10-day furlough before his induction, selective service officials explained.
